Answering the Contemplative Call Carl McColman,2021-11-16 The mystical path is not some sort of static experience for the select few says Carl McColman rather it is a living tradition a rich and many layered dimension of spirituality that is in large measure a quest to find the mysteries at the heart of the universe paradoxically nestled within the heart of your own soul McColman first introduced readers to Christianity's lost mystical roots in his popular book The Big Book of Christian Mysticism. Now McColman is back with Answering the Contemplative Call to show readers how to apply the riches of the mystical tradition to daily living. McColman quotes from the great mystics of the Christian tradition who have also traveled this path including Teresa of Avila, Thomas Merton, Evelyn Underhill, and more. In Answering the Contemplative Call, McColman offers a practice that will help readers come to a place of meaning and purpose in their lives.

Evagrius Ponticus and Cognitive Science George Tsakiridis, 2010-01-15. This study puts the thought of Evagrius Ponticus, a fourth-century theologian, into dialogue with modern cognitive science in regard to the topic of evil, specifically moral evil. Evagrius, in his writings about prayer and the ascetic life, addressed the struggle with personal moral evil in terms of the eight thoughts or demons. These thoughts were transmitted by John Cassian to the Western church and later recast by Gregory the Great as the Seven Deadly Sins. Though present understandings of evil appear to differ greatly from those of Evagrius, his wisdom concerning the battle against evil may prove to be of great help even today. Using the work of Pierre Hadot to recover Evagrius' context and the work of Paul Ricoeur to discuss how we construct descriptions and myths of evil, Evagrius is brought into dialogue with the cognitive sciences. Using current research, especially the work of Eugene d'Aquili and Andrew Newberg, this study reveals the contemporary relevance of Evagrius' approach to combating evil. In addition, the interdisciplinary study of patristics and cognitive science opens the pathway to a better understanding between Christian tradition and the modern sciences. Recent years have seen a resurgence in studies of Evagrius of Pontus, bringing his work into a new relevance to today's world. This book by Dr. Tsakiridis examines the work of Evagrius and focuses on a perspective not well covered in the literature: Evagrius' importance to science, especially the cognitive sciences. The book is insightful and represents an important new contribution to studies of Evagrius' work and to the science and religion discussion as a whole. Gayle E. Woloschak, The Feinberg School, Northwestern University. Few writers in the field of religion and science have the competence to interpret so many and varied texts in patristic, mystical, and moral theology, contemporary neuroscience, and the turn to spirituality in contemporary theology. He shows how both cognitive science and mystical theology can mutually enrich and inform each other in ways unimagined by today's popular neo-atheists and agnostics. Robert A. Cathey, McCormick Theological Seminary. In a thoroughly limpid style, George Tsakiridis sets before us an exceptionally interesting project: 1) he centers on sin, evil, and prayer in a way that is central to the religious life; 2) he engages the cutting-edge domain of cognitive sciences; and 3) he invites us to take seriously both a much-neglected fourth-century religious thinker and the most contemporary work of scientists who focus on the mind and its activities. Philip Hefner, Lutheran School of Theology at Chicago. Emeritus. George Tsakiridis artfully compares and clarifies the concepts used by ancient and modern thinkers to describe meditation, ways to deal with good and evil, and mysticism, and adds neuroscientific
