Building Europe Cris Shore, 2013-11-05 The development of the European Union has been one of the most profound advances in European politics and society this century Yet the institutions of Europe and the Eurocrats who work in them have constantly attracted negative publicity culminating in the mass resignation of the European Commissioners in March 1999 In this revealing study Cris Shore scrutinises the process of European integration using the techniques of anthropology and drawing on thought from across the social sciences Using the findings of numerous interviews with EU employees he reveals that there is not just a subculture of corruption within the institutions of Europe but that their problems are largely a result of the way the EU itself is constituted and run He argues that European integration has largely failed in bringing about anything but an ever closer integration of the technical political and financial elites of Europe at the expense of its ordinary citizens This critical anthropology of European integration is essential reading for anyone with an interest in the culture and politics of the EU

Empires of the Senses Andrew Jon Rotter, 2019 A deeply researched study this book offers the first sensory history of the British empire in India and the United States in the Philippines reflecting on how senses structured the colonizers perception of the colonized and vice versa and impacted the British and American imperial projects

Multisensory Human-Food Interaction Carlos Velasco, Anton Nijholt, Kasun Karunanayaka, 2018-07-26 Our food experiences can be significantly influenced by both intrinsic and extrinsic multisensory information Therefore it is crucial to understand and apply the principles that govern the systematic connections that exist between the senses in the context of Human Food Interaction HFI In our Research Topic namely Multisensory Human Food Interaction MHFI several studies that consider such connections in the context of HFI are presented We also have contributions that focus on multisensory technologies that can be used to share and reproduce specific HFIs This eBook which resulted from the Research Topic presents some of the most recent developments in the field of MHFI In particular it consists of two main sections and corresponding articles The eBook begins with the Editorial which provides an overview of MHFI Then it includes six articles that relate to principles in MHFI and three on technologies in MHFI We hope that the different contributions featured here will support future developments in MHFI research

Thinking through the Body Yannis Hamilakis, Mark Pluciennik, Sarah Tarlow, 2002 What is the archaeology of the body and how can it change the way we experience the past This book one of the first to appear on the subject records and evaluates the emergence of this new direction of cross disciplinary research and examines the potential of incorporating some of its insights into archaeology It will be of interest to students researchers and teachers in archaeology as well as in cognate disciplines such as anthropology and history

Spatial Cultures Sam Griffiths, Alexander von Lünen, 2016-06-10
 What is the relationship between how cities work and what cities mean Spatial Cultures Towards a New Social Morphology of Cities Past and Present announces an innovative research agenda for urban studies in which themes and methods from urban history social theory and built environment research are brought into dialogue across disciplinary and chronological boundaries The collection confronts the recurrent epistemological impasse that arises between research focussing on the description of material built environments and that which is concerned primarily with the people who inhabit govern and write about cities past and present A reluctance to engage substantively with this issue has been detrimental to scholarly efforts to understand the urban built environment as a meaningful agent of human social experience Drawing on a wide range of historical and contemporary urban case studies as well as a selection of theoretical and methodological reflections the contributions to this volume seek to historically geographically and architecturally contextualize diverse spatial practices including movement encounter play procession and neighbourhood The aim is to challenge their tacit treatment as universal categories in much writing on cities and to propose alternative research possibilities with implications as much for urban design thinking as for history and the social sciences

Street Trees in Britain Mark Johnston, 2017-07-31
 The trees which line many of the streets in our towns and cities can often be regarded as part of a heritage landscape Despite the difficult conditions of an urban environment these trees may live for 100 years or more and represent living history in the midst of our modern streetscapes This is the first book on the history of Britain's street trees and it gives a highly readable authoritative and often amusing account of their story from the tree lined promenades of the seventeenth century to the majestic boulevards that grace some of our modern city centers The impact of the Victorian street tree movement is examined not only in the major cities but also in the rapidly developing suburbs that continued to expand through the twentieth century There are fascinating descriptions of how street trees have helped to improve urban conditions in spa towns and seaside resorts and also in visionary initiatives such as the model villages garden cities garden suburbs and new towns While much of the book focuses on the social and cultural history of our street trees the last three chapters look at the practicalities of how these trees have been engineered into concrete landscapes This includes the many threats to street trees over the years such as pollution conflict with urban infrastructure pests and diseases and what is probably the greatest threat in recent times the dramatic growth in car ownership Street Trees in Britain will have particular appeal to those interested in heritage landscapes urban history and the natural and built environment Some of its themes were introduced in the author's previous work the widely acclaimed Trees in Towns and Cities A History of British Urban Arboriculture

the Environment Klaus Kümmerer, 2008-10-10 When the first green wave appeared in the mid and late 1960s it was considered a feasible task to solve pollution problems The visible problems were mostly limited to point sources and a comprehensive end of the pipe technology environmental technology was available It was even seriously discussed in the US that what was called zero discharge could be attained by 1985 It became clear in the early 1970s that zero discharge would be too expensive and that we should also rely on the self purification ability of ecosystems That called for the development of environmental and ecological models to assess the self purification capacity of ecosystems and to set up emission standards considering the relationship between impacts and effects in the ecosystems This idea is illustrated in Fig 0 1 A model is used to relate an emission to its effect on the ecosystem and its components The relationship is applied to select a good solution to environmental problems by application of environmental technology
