Capacity Building for Maritime Security Christian Bueger,Timothy Edmunds,Robert McCabe,2020-10-09 This book studies recent attempts to restructure maritime security sectors through capacity building It innovates both theoretically and empirically It proposes a new framework for understanding maritime capacity building drawing on work in peacebuilding and security sector reform The framework is then applied across empirical case studies from the Western Indian Ocean WIO region written by scholars from the Global South The WIO region is a paradigmatic case to study maritime security and capacity building in action Countries in the region face the full gamut of maritime security challenges while their indigenous capacities to deal with these are often weak In consequence the region functions as an engine of innovation for maritime capacity building more widely The lessons and best practices from the region have importance consequences for addressing maritime security across the globe

The Collective Naval Defence of Empire, 1900-1940 Nicholas Tracy,2020-11-26 This collection of high policy documents charts Britain s difficulties in defending the Empire in a time of imperial overstretch The 20th century saw the rise of several great maritime and military powers and the relative decline of British strength which created major defence problems for the British Empire Various solutions were attempted such as ententes with France and Russia the settling of differences with the USA and an alliance with Japan These sufficed until after World War I when the Empire gained several new territorial responsibilities all to be defended on a declining economic base The dominions were encouraged to pay for their own navies although the Admiralty wished to assume control of them The increasing threat from Japan made Australia New Zealand and other Asian colonies nervous and the promised main fleet to Singapore became less and less likely as the 1930s wore on
