Ocr Cmay 12question Paper:

The administration of examinations for 15-19 year olds in England Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Education Committee,2012-07-03 This report from the Education Committee looks at the administration of examinations for 15 19 year olds in England The Committee expresses serious concerns about incentives in the exam system and about competition on syllabus content Incentives in the system should be changed so the downward pressure through the competition of exam boards is mitigated The Committee considers a number of options to change incentives including i A single board This offers a simpler system with no risk of competition but the Committee believes the cost risk and disruption outweigh the benefits ii Franchising of subjects to exam boards This removes syllabus competition but again has downsides 3 Or the current system of multiple boards The Committee sees no benefit in competition on syllabus content but the setting and marking of exams and associated administration if properly regulated could generate incentives and drive quality up offering value for money to schools and colleges The Committee also recommends the development of national syllabuses accredited by Ofqual The syllabuses would be developed by exam boards in conjunction with learned bodies and employer organisations and could therefore retain the benefits of competition on quality and the incentive for exam boards to innovate

Koistinen,2004 Prolific munitions production keyed America s triumph in World War II but so did the complex economic controls needed to sustain that production Artillery tanks planes ships trucks and weaponry of every kind were constantly demanded by the military and readily supplied by American business While that relationship was remarkably successful in helping the U S win the war it also raised troubling issues about wartime economies that have never been fully resolved Paul Koistinen s fourth installment of a monumental five volume series on the political economy of American warfare focuses on the mobilization of national resources for a truly global war Koistinen comprehensively analyzes all relevant aspects of the World War II economy from 1940 through 1945 describing the nation s struggle to establish effective control over industrial supply and military demand and revealing the growing partnership between the corporate community and the armed services Koistinen traces the evolution of federal agencies mobilizing for war including the National Defense Advisory Commission the Office of Production Management and the Supply Priorities and Allocation Board and then focuses on the work of the War Production Board from 1942 1945 As the war progressed the WPB and related agencies oversaw the military s supply and procurement systems stabilized the economy while financing the war closely monitored labor relations and controlled the shipping and rationing of fuel and food In chronicling American mobilization Koistinen reveals how representatives of industry and the armed services expanded upon their growing prewar ties to shape policies for harnessing the economy and how federal agencies were subsequently riven with dissension as New Deal reformers and anti New Deal corporate elements battled for control over mobilization itself As the armed services emerged as the principal customers of a command economy the military industrial nexus consolidated its power and ultimately succeeded in bending the reformers to its will The product of exhaustive archival research Arsenal of World War II shows that mobilization meant more than simply harnessing the economy for war it also involved struggles for power and position among a great many interest groups and ideologies Nearly two decades in the making it provides an ambitious and enormously insightful overview of the emergence of the military industrial economy one that still resonates today as America continues to wage wars around the globe      Computerworld Index ,1976
