Corporal punishment is a form of physical punishment that involves the purposeful infliction of pain for a crime. Capital punishment is the legal process where someone is put to death as punishment for a crime. In the 16th century the use of corporal punishment became public events. The theory behind this method was that if people saw these public beatings, they would feel less inclined to commit crimes for themselves. The English philosopher, John Locke, wrote "Some Thoughts Concerning Education" in 1693. In this work he strongly criticized the use of corporal punishment in schools. His work was extremely influential, and led to the Polish government banning the use of corporal punishment in schools in 1783; it
