

7 DIFFERENT TYPES OF LEARNING STYLES

When people identify the learning style that suits them best, they tend to stick with it. However, research has shown that the most effective study comes from blending different learning styles together.

VISUAL

Visual learners do well when they use symbols, boxes, charts and colours in their notes. If you find that you learn better by reading and looking at pictures, diagrams and graphs etc. the chances are you're a visual learner.

VERBAL

Techniques used by verbal learners are reciting information out loud, writing your own notes and highlighting the key points. Having a passion for words, writing, tongue twisters, rhymes, may indicate that this learning style is for you.

AURAL

Aural learning involves using sound and music. Auditory learners develop understanding and memory by hearing and listening. If you find it easier to understand spoken instructions rather than reading, aural learning will benefit you.

PHYSICAL

Physical learning involves using your body and sense of touch to learn. Physical learners learn by doing, touching, moving, building, and are described as a 'hands-on'. If you find it difficult to sit still for long periods of time, chances are you're a physical learner.

LOGICAL

Logical learners often learn by asking a lot of questions. Logical learners want to understand the whole picture. They are natural thinkers who learn by classifying, categorising and thinking abstractly about patterns & relationships etc.

SOCIAL

Social learners prefer to learn in groups rather than on their own and like generating ideas by brainstorming with others. If you like taking part in group sports and prefer social activities than doing things on your own, you may be a social learner.

SOLITARY

Solitary learners tend to be more independent and introspective, spending a lot of time on their own, enjoying their own company. If you enjoy spending time alone, keeping a journal and engaging in self-analysis to gain a deeper understanding of yourself, you may be a solitary learner.

Research Paper Learning Styles:

Learning Styles in Education and Training Eugene Sadler-Smith, Carol Evans, 2006 The application of learning styles theory and research continues to hold great promise for practitioners in both education and training as a potentially powerful mechanism for enabling pupils students and trainees to better manage their own learning throughout their educational and working lives The selection of papers from the 10th annual European Learning Styles Information Network conference held in July 2005 at the School of Management University of Surrey presented here raise a number of pertinent issues which are significant in the on going debate regarding the value of cognitive a Learning Strategies and Learning Styles Ronald R. Schmeck, 2013-11-11 A style is any pattern we see in a person s way of accomplishing a particular type of task The task of interest in the present context is education learning and remembering in school and transferring what is learned to the world outside of school Teachers are expressing some sort of awareness of style when they observe a particular action taken by a particular student and then say something like This doesn t surprise me That s just the way he is Observation of a single action cannot reveal a style One s impres sion of a person s style is abstracted from multiple experiences of the person under similar circumstances In education if we understand the styles of individual students we can often anticipate their perceptions and subsequent behaviors anticipate their misunderstandings take ad vantage of their strengths and avoid or correct their weaknesses These are some of the goals of the present text In the first chapter I present an overview of the terminology and research methods used by various authors of the text Although they differ a bit with regard to meanings ascribed to certain terms or with regard to conclusions drawn from certain types of data there is none theless considerable agreement especially when one realizes that they represent three different continents and five different nationalities
