Securing Wilderness Landscapes in South Africa Harry Wels, 2015-05-12 Private wildlife conservation is booming business in South Africa Nick Steele stood at the cradle of this development in the politically turbulent 1970s and 1980s by stimulating farmers in Natal now KwaZulu Natal to pool resources in order to restore wilderness landscapes but at the same time improve their security situation in cooperative conservancy structures His involvement in Operation Rhino in the 1960s and subsequent networks to save the rhino from extinction brought him into controversial military oriented networks around the Western world The author s unique access to his private diaries paints a personal picture of this controversial conservationist The American Naturalist ,2009 Rhinoceros Kelly Enright, 2008-06-24 The rhinoceros s horn and massive leathery frame belie its docile and solitary nature causing the animal to be consistently perceived by humans as a monster to be feared Kelly Enright now deftly sifts fact from fiction in Rhinoceros Enright chronicles the vexed interactions between humans and rhinos from early sightings that mistook the rhinoceros for the mythical unicorn to the eighteenth century display of the rhinoceros in Europe as a wonder of nature and its introduction to the American public in 1830 The rhinoceros has long been a prized hunting object as well whether for its horn as a valuable ingredient in Asian medicine or as a coveted trophy by nineteenth century big game hunters such as Theodore Roosevelt and the book explains how such practices have led to the rhino s status as an endangered species Enright also considers portrayals of the animal in film literature and art all in the service of discovering whether the reputed savagery of the rhino is a reality or a legacy of its mythic past A wide ranging highly illustrated study Rhinoceros will be essential for scholars and animal lovers alike

Extinction and Memorial Culture Hannah Stark, 2023-06-23 This book considers how we encounter and make meaning from extinction in diverse settings and cultures It brings together an international and interdisciplinary range of scholars to consider how extinction is memorialised in museums and cultural institutions through monuments in literature and art through public acts of ritual and protest and in everyday practices In an era in which species are becoming extinct at an unprecedented rate we must find new ways to engage critically creatively and courageously with species loss Extinction and Memorial Culture Reckoning with Species Loss in the Anthropocene develops the conceptual tools to think in complex ways about extinctions and their aftermath along with providing new insights into commemorating and mourning more than human lives This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of the environmental humanities extinction studies memorial culture and the Anthropocene Savages and Beasts Nigel Rothfels, 2025-03-04 Now completely revised A history of the modern zoo In this revised edition of Savages and Beasts Nigel Rothfels traces the origins of the modern zoo to the efforts of the German entrepreneur Carl Hagenbeck the most successful dealer in exotic animals in the nineteenth century Building from his core business in animals Hagenbeck eventually became even more famous for his large ethnographic exhibitions and circus ventures When Hagenbeck opened his Animal Park near Hamburg Germany in 1907 he brought together all his business interests in a revolutionary zoological park He moved wild animals out of their cages and into natural landscapes and in the process invented a new way of imagining captivity Through the use of theatrical scenery the animals and people performing in his ethnographic exhibitions appeared to be living in their native lands This revised edition addresses ethical concerns about the representation of indigenous peoples and animals and includes a host of new images and photographs By examining Hagenbeck's enterprises Savages and Beasts demonstrates how ideas about the role of zoos and the nature of animal captivity developed in the late nineteenth century Rothfels provides a much needed historical perspective on the connections between the development of modern zoos and their colonial histories

Sponsoring Nature Maano Ramutsindela, Marja Spierenburg, Harry Wels, 2013-11-05. Saving the world's flora and fauna, especially high profile examples such as chimpanzees, whales, and the tropical rain forests, is big business. Individuals and companies channel their resources to the preservation of nature through various ways, one of which is the funding of environmental non-governmental organizations (NGOs) and community-based organizations (CBOs). This book is the first to comprehensively address this issue and focus on a dominant theme in environmental philanthropy: the links between NGOs and CBOs and their sponsors, especially the private sector. It has been argued that donor support is based on recipient's perceived expertise and needs, with no favouritism of flagship environmental organizations as recipients of donor funds. A counterview holds that the private sector prefers to fund mainstream NGOs for environmental research and policy reforms congenial to industrial capital. The authors show that the debate about these arguments, together with the empirical evidence on which they are based, may shed light on certain aspects of the nature of environmental philanthropy. The book evaluates practical examples of environmental philanthropy from Africa and elsewhere against philosophical questions about the material and geographical expressions of philanthropy and the North-South connections among philanthropists and NGOs and CBOs.

The Afterlives of Animals Samuel J. M. M. Alberti, 2011-09-20. In the quiet halls of the natural history museum, there are some creatures still alive with stories whose personalities refuse to be relegated to the dusty corners of an exhibit. The fame of these beasts during their lifetimes has given them an iconic status in death. More than just museum specimens, these animals have attained a second life as historical and cultural records. This collection of essays from a broad array of contributors, including anthropologists, curators, fine artists, geographers, historians, and journalists, comprises short biographies of a number of famous taxidermized animals. Each essay traces the life, death, and museum afterlife of a specific creature, illuminating the overlooked role of the dead beast in the modern human-animal encounter through practices as disparate as hunting and zookeeping. The contributors offer fresh examinations of the many levels at which humans engage with other animals, especially those that function as both natural and cultural phenomena, including Queen Charlotte's pet zebra, Maharajah the elephant, and Balto the sled dog, among others. Readers curious about the enduring fascination with animals who have attained these strange afterlives will be drawn to the individual narratives within each essay, while learning more about the scientific, cultural, and museological contexts of each subject. Ranging from autobiographical to analytical, the contributors' varying styles make this delightful book a true menagerie.
