Meanings and Values of Water in Russian Culture Jane Costlow, Arja Rosenholm, 2016-11-25 Bringing together a team of scholars from the diverse fields of geography literary studies and history this is the first volume to study water as a cultural phenomenon within the Russian Soviet context Water in this context is both a cognitive and cultural construct and a geographical and physical phenomenon representing particular rivers the Volga the Chusovaia in the Urals the Neva and bodies of water from Baikal to sacred springs and the flowing water of nineteenth century estates but also powerful systems of meaning from traditional cultures and those forged in the radical restructuring undertaken in the 1930s Individual chapters explore the polyvalence and contestation of meanings dimensions and values given to water in various times and spaces in Russian history The reservoir of symbolic association is tapped by poets and film makers but also by policy makers the popular press and advertisers seeking to incite reaction or drive sales The volume's emphasis on the cultural dimensions of water will link material that is often widely disparate in time and space it will also serve as the methodological framework for the analysis undertaken both within chapters and in the editors introduction

Being and Hearing Peter Graif, 2018-08-15 How do deaf people in different societies perceive and conceive the world around them Drawing on three years of anthropological fieldwork in Nepali deaf communities Being and Hearing shows how questions of cultural difference are profoundly shaped by local habits of perception Beginning with the premise that philosophy and cultural intuition are separated only by genre and pedigree Peter Graif argues that Nepali deaf communities in their social sensibilities political projects and aesthetics of expression present innovative answers to the very old question of what it means to be different From pranks and protests to diverse acts of love and resistance to renewed distinctions between material and immaterial deaf communities in Nepal have crafted ways to foreground the habits of perception that shape both their own experiences and how they are experienced by the hearing people around them By exploring these often overlooked strategies Being and Hearing makes a unique contribution to ethnography and comparative philosophy

Live Stock and Dead Things Hannah Chazin, 2024-12-20 Reconceptualizes human animal relationships and their political significance in ancient and modern societies In Live Stock and Dead Things Hannah Chazin combines zooarchaeology and anthropology to challenge familiar narratives about the role of nonhuman animals in the rise of modern societies Conventional views of this process tend to see a mostly linear development from hunter gatherer societies to horticultural and pastoral ones to large scale agricultural ones and then industrial ones Along the way traditional accounts argue that owning livestock as property along with land and other valuable commodities introduced social inequality and stratification Against this Chazin raises a provocative question What if domestication wasn't the origin of instrumentalizing nonhuman animals after all Chazin argues that these conventional narratives are inherited from conjectural histories and ignore the archaeological data In her view the category of domestication flattens the more complex dimensions of humans relationship to herd animals In the book s first half Chazin offers a new understanding of the political possibilities of pastoralism one that recognizes the powerful role herd animals have played in shaping human notions of power and authority In the second half she takes readers into her archaeological fieldwork in the South Caucasus which sheds further light on herd animals transformative effect on the economy social life and ritual Appealing to anthropologists and archaeologists alike this daring book offers a reconceptualization of human animal relationships and their political significance

A Buddhist Theory of Semiotics Fabio Rambelli, 2013-05-16 One of the first attempts ever to present in a systematic way a non western semiotic system This book looks at Japanese esoteric Buddhism and is based around original texts informed by explicit and rigorous semiotic categories It is a unique introduction to important aspects of the thought and rituals of the Japanese Shingon tradition Semiotic concerns are deeply ingrained in the Buddhist intellectual and religious discourse beginning with the idea that the world is not what it appears to be which calls for a more accurate understanding of the self and reality This in turn results in sustained discussions on the status of language and representations and on the possibility and methods to know reality beyond delusion such peculiar knowledge is explicitly defined as enlightenment Thus for Buddhism semiotics is directly relevant to salvation this is a key point that is often ignored even by Buddhologists This book discusses in depth the main elements of Buddhist semiotics as based primarily on original Japanese pre modern sources It is a crucial publication in the fields of semiotics and religious studies

The Language of War Monuments David Machin, Gill Abousnnouga, 2013-10-10 This book analyses war monuments by developing a multimodal social semiotic approach to understand how they communicate as three dimensional objects The book provides a practical tool kit approach to how critical multimodal social semiotics should be done through visual textual and material analysis It ties this material analysis into the social and political contexts of production Using examples across the 20th and 21st century the book s chapters offer a way of analysing the way that monument designers have used specific semiotic choices in terms of things like iconography objects shape form angularity height materials and surface realisation to place representations of war in public places across Britain This social semiotic approach to the study of war monuments serves three innovative purposes First it provides a contribution to the work on the ideological representations of war in Media and Cultural Studies and in Critical Discourse Analysis applied specifically to more banal realisations of discourse Second it responds to calls by historians for innovative ways to study war commemoration by providing an approach that offers both specific analysis of the objects and attends to matters of design Thirdly following in the relatively recent tradition of multimodal analysis the arguments draw on the ideas of Kress and van Leeuwen 1996 2001 adapting and extending their theories and models to the analysis of British commemorative war monuments in order to develop a multimodal framework for the analysis of three dimensional objects
