Sergison Bates Architects Stephen Bates, Jonathan Sergison, Sergison Bates architects, 2005 The London based architectural practice of Sergison Bates combines building projects construction research and teaching The publication presents eight case study projects made between 1997 and 2005 Each of them explores the spatial potential of brick construction and identifies the possibilities for the materiality of buildings to have a direct emotional effect Papers 2 Jonathan Sergison, Stephen Bates, Sergison Bates architects, 2007 This book is a collection of illustrated papers by British architects Jonathan Sergison and Stephen Bates written between 2002 and 2007 Writing like drawing and talking together supports their collaborative and creative work providing as it does a tangible reference point for communication and in the search for shared objectives Although each of the papers included in this volume was written by one of the architects they acknowledge shared authorship of their content and objective In the preparation of each paper the observer acts as a friendly critic to the write integral to the process and supportive of the exploration of personal and shared experience Some of these papers were written as a result of self imposed discipline others were prepared as lectures to support their teaching practice to highlight a particular theme or encourage a way of looking at something Others were written as contributions towards symposia conferences and publications or in response to invitations to speak publicly about their work In some cases a lecture based on notes and images has been subsequently developed for publication This results in a rich mix in terms of content length structure and character The twenty papers are organised thematically and chronologically within each section addressing reflections on their own position within architectural discourse on the process of making buildings on some of the ideas that recur in their work and on aspects of place Economy and Architecture Juliet Odgers, Mhairi McVicar, Stephen Kite, 2015-07-16 Economy and Architecture addresses a timely critical and much debated topic in both its historical and contemporary dimensions From the Apple Store in New York City to the street markets of the Pan American Highway from commercial Dubai to the public schools of Australia this book takes a critical look at contemporary architecture from across the globe whilst extending its range back in history as far as the Homeric epics of ancient Greece The book addresses the challenges of practicing architecture within the strictures of contemporary economies grounded on the fundamental definition of economy as the well managed household derived from the Greek oikonomia oikos house and nemein manage The diverse enquiries of the study are structured around the following key questions How do we define our economies How are the values of architecture negotiated among the various actors involved How do we manage the production of a good architecture within any particular system How does political economy frame and influence architecture The majority of examples are taken from current or recent architectural practice historical examples which include John Evelyn's villa Blenheim Palace John Ruskin's Venice and early twentieth century Paris place the debates within an extended critical perspective Continued Building on the Village, the Settlement, the City Albert Kirchengast, 2023-04-27 Skilful architecture without gloss and bling bling In this book Albert Kirchengast looks at three projects that may serve as models of further construction Max Dudler Franz Riepl and Jonathan Sergison demonstrate an analogous approach to further construction at the scale levels of village town and city With their elementary constructedness clean proportions and elegant interplay of volumes in the urban space these projects embody a permanence without affectation and fashionable elements and provide a meaningful and unassuming background to everyday life In doing so they not only answer the pressing question of the ecology of coexistence but also provide a benchmark within our heterogeneous design culture Photos by H l ne Binet David Schreyer and Stefan M ller as well as historical illustrations accompany the plea for a masterful middle way in architecture Architecture of permanence without affectation and modish elements Three projects by Max Dudler Franz Riepl and Jonathan Sergison Photo spreads by H l ne Binet David Schreyer and Stefan M ller Albert Kirchengast architectural theorist author and lecturer at ETH Zurich

Why We Build With Brick Felicity Cannell, 2023-07-31 This book focuses on the contemporary fired clay brick to explore themes of home and house homeownership materiality and sense of place It investigates why despite an increasing number of alternative materials brick remains at the forefront of what people in the UK in particular expect homes to be built of and how brick is indelibly entwined with what home means something materially stable and financially secure affording a located sense of place Through observation of the building process and interviews with bricklayers foremen planners developers and homebuyers in England Felicity Cannell traces the embedded meanings of a mundane ubiquitous artefact and reveals the tensions and contradictions in today s use of brick to signify the traditional home Although easing the planning process and leading to quick sales the way brick is used in mass market housing today considerably restricts its capacities notably decoration flexibility and strength the very qualities which have historically positioned this tremendously versatile material as the superlative building block Overall the book adds complexity to the study of home and prompts debate about why we build the way we do London's Turning Michael J. Rustin, 2016-12-14 The Thames Gateway plan is the largest and most complex project of urban regeneration ever undertaken in the United Kingdom This book provides a comprehensive overview and critique of the Thames Gateway plan but at the same time it uses the plan as a lens through which to look at a series of important questions of social theory urban policy and governmental practice It examines the impact of urban planning and demographic change on East London's material and social environment including new forms of ethnic gentrification the development of the eastern hinterlands shifting patterns of migration between city and country the role of new policies in regulating housing provision and the attempt to create new cultural hubs downriver It also looks at issues of governance and accountability the tension between public and private interests and the immediate and longer term prospects for the Thames Gateway project both in relation to the Olympics effect and the growth of new forms of regionalism Architectural Publications Index, 2003 The Architecture of Wales John B. now a century old and its consequences are all around us built into our everyday lived environments Its place in Britain s history is fiercely contested and its role in our future is the subject of ongoing controversy but modernist buildings have undoubtedly changed our cities politics and identity forever In Modern Buildings in Britain Owen Hatherley applauds the ambition and explores the significance of this most divisive of architectures travelling from Aberystwyth to Aberdeen from St Ives to Shetland in search of our most important and distinctive modern buildings Drawing on hundreds of examples we learn how the concrete of Brutalism embodies post war civic principles how corporate values were expressed in the glass facades of the International Style and why Ecomodernist experimentation is often consigned to the geographic fringes As Hatherley considers the social political and cultural value of these structures a number of which are threatened by demolition two linked questions emerge what happens to a building after it has been lived in and what becomes of an idea when its time has passed With more than six hundred pages of trenchantly opinionated often witty analysis and with three hundred photographs in duotone and colour Modern Buildings in Britain is a landmark contribution to the history of British architecture the different perspectives of its various authors but also charts a middle course between the aesthetic histories that examine architecture solely in terms of its formal aspects and the more ideological histories that subject it to a critique that often skirts the discussion of its formal aspects Metamorphism Ákos Moravánszky, 2017-11-20 Materiality is a recurring and central issue in architecture This book explains how materials are constructed how they become cultural substances Metamorphism investigates the complex relationship between natural materials and technology science and sensuality Gottfried Semper 1803 1879 made the notion of Stoffwechsel the key element of his theory With this concept he intended to explain how a structural form originally bound to a method of processing is transferred from one material to another liberated from its original function For the first time the book investigates the subject from a historic point of view whilst reflecting on current interdisciplinary research Examples from Aalto to Zumthor illustrate the specific aspects of historic and contemporary material concepts Buildings of Walsall Peter Arnold, 2003 A guide to the buildings of Walsall

Brussels Housing Gérald Ledent, Alessandro Porotto, 2023-02-20 Modern urban terraced houses or row houses emerged in Europe from the 17th century onwards Usually two to three storeys high and with a garden at the back they formed the traditional urban block In Brussels this bourgeois form of housing took on a particularly varied and inspiring form including the well known Art Nouveau residences and forms the DNA of the city to this day This publication analyses 100 selected examples illustrating the emergence of the terraced house and its further development in other forms of housing The result is a broad panorama and a history of the architecture and development of the city of Brussels with its particularly heterogenous cityscape Urban Transformations and the Architecture of Additions Rodrigo Perez de Arce, 2014-08-07 Rodrigo Perez de Arce's essay Urban Transformations and Architectural Additions was published during the formative stages of Post Modernism at the point where theory was becoming seriously established Jencks' first essays formalising the term Post Modernism in architecture and the revised Learning from Las Vegas were published the previous year In planning terms modernism had become associated with comprehensive redevelopment and forms of urban organisation that ignored context history and any sense of tradition De Arce considered the essential nature of buildings and the richness of historic urban form and explored how robust that essence was over time He looked at the value of essential remnants and rich complexities in maintaining a sense of continuity and relevance Having explored the adaptation process in history de Arce went on to see how such a process might be simulated in contemporary cities with modern buildings using additions and layers to change them from objects in infinite windswept space to being part of a rich urban fabric which described urban place To do this he used concrete examples housing schemes by James Stirling new government centres in Chandigarh and Dacca and more prosaic 60s housing blocks The paper had a fundamental influence on the way that architects and planners thought about the nature of cities as dynamic organisms that were tangible to human beings completely opposite to the systems thinking of the time It contributed to ideas about the importance of street place and city block which influenced so much recent regeneration practice As we enter a phase of development where the reuse and adaptation of existing buildings is becoming paramount from both an economic and sustainable point of view Perez de Arce s paper gives important insights into how to think about the process positively
