

Letter of Nomination Nick Dines Community Service Award

The Boston Society of Landscape Architects nominates Nicholas T. Dines FASLA for the ASLA Community Service Award. In addition to his notable achievements as a landscape architect, professor and author, Nick has pursued a busy second career as a community volunteer, bringing landscape architecture to people and places that have little knowledge or experience of the profession. The results of his many years of volunteer service have achieved spectacular results: rebuilding the streetscape of his town center, founding a regional greenway, designing and building local parks and instilling a new awareness of landscape architecture in his community.

In the process, Nick has inspired and educated countless other volunteers in the benefits of his profession. He has brought his skills as a teacher to his volunteer work, patiently guiding citizen volunteers through the design and construction process. His ability to motivate and organize others has had a lasting effect on his community and the surrounding region. By involving hundreds of other volunteers in bringing landscape architecture into their community, Nick has transformed public spaces and the public's perception of our profession. He hasn't just built inspiring community landscapes; he has built a community movement dedicated to improving the region's landscape that is much larger and longer lasting than any one person.

The ultimate goal of Nick's volunteer work is create beautiful, well built spaces that bring people together and create a stronger sense of community in nature. As he said in a recent newspaper article about his work, "My long-term goal is to have all of this become part of the town's persona, part of the town's ethos".

Nick's inspiring community projects include:

Revitalizing the town center of Williamsburg

Over a decade ago, state engineers issued a plan for the reconstruction of the state highway that forms the main street of the village of Williamsburg, Nick's home town. Nick didn't like what he saw: a plan to rush traffic at high speeds through town with no parking for local businesses and no easy way for pedestrians to cross the busy road. So Nick developed an alternative proposal. It included a different road layout with traffic calming features, pedestrian crosswalks, a wide shoulder for bicyclists, street trees, shrubs and benches. Nick presented the plan, along with a petition signed by many town residents, to state highway department officials who accepted it. From a high speed state highway, Williamsburg's town center was transformed into a community space where people could come together.
