Kathleen McCartney, Deborah Phillips

Separate Lives Why Siblings Are So Different:

Separate Lives Judy Dunn, Robert Plomin, 1990-10-29 Why do two children reared in the same family turn out to be so different Through lively research examples the authors examine the cause of sibling differences and in the process overturn much of the prevailing wisdom on the roles of nature and nurture in development The future of DNA J. Wirz, E.T.

Lammerts van Bueren, 2012-12-06 The rapid progress in biological and biomedical sciences in the last twenty years has brought with it an extensive development of the methods of molecular genetics This has had impacts on society in many fields Practical applications in medicine pharmacology agriculture food design and biotechnology are firmly established and will grow enormously in the years to come The scientific views of DNA and genes which underpin these applications are challenging our fundamental concepts of life nature society and humanity It is beyond doubt that these developments need to be evaluated and reflected upon both from a scientific and philosophical point of view as well as from a cultural and social perspective This book provides a wide range of discussions about the effects of DNA thinking in science and society in biology and in relation to what it is to be human Insights are provided into trans disciplinary approaches and divergent views are compared The reports on the plenary discussions and the many workshops show progress towards a power free dialogue i e an exchange of thoughts free of economic and political pressure The viewpoints of a variety of specialists including scientists microbiologists molecular geneticists and clinical researchers clinicians philosophers and members of NGOs are presented The contents will be of particular interest to those involved in genetic engineering from students to policy makers who face the challenge of the new technology in their work and who are looking for a substantial expansion and complementation of their basis for judgement forming Twins - From Fetus to Child Alessandra Piontelli, 2012-09-10

Though much has been written about twins very little research has been done into their everyday lives both postnatal and prenatal In this fascinating new study Alessandra Piontelli follows the development and behaviour of thirty pairs of twins from their early life in the womb through to their third year of childhood Drawing on detailed ultrasound observations and work with mothers and families in clinical and natural settings the text traces the subtle ways in which various types of twins live behave and interact with their unequally shared and unique pre and postnatal environments Piontelli shows how from early on distinctive and personal traits can be seen in the behaviour of each member of a twin couple and how these traits continue and strengthen well beyond birth The book describes not only the behaviour of the twins but the impact they have on the lives of their family and carers what family members say how they react and how the family changes Scientifically based but warmly human in content this unique longitudinal study offers new insight for professionals working with mothers and families of twins and for researchers in human development across a range of disciplines Handbook of Parenting

Marc H. Bornstein, 2005-02-16 Despite the fact that most people become parents and everyone who has ever lived has had parents parenting remains a mystifying subject about which almost everyone has opinions but about which few people agree

Striking permutations on the theme of parenting are emerging single parenthood blended families lesbian and gay parents and teen versus fifties first time moms and dads Divided into four volumes the Handbook of Parenting is concerned with different types of parents basic characteristics of parenting forces that shape parenting problems faced by parents and the practical sides of parenting Contributors have worked in different ways toward understanding all of these diverse aspects of parenting and look to the most recent research and thinking in the field to shed light on many topics every parent has wondered about Because development is too subtle dynamic and intricate to admit that parental caregiving alone determines the course and outcome of ontogeny volume 1 concerns how children influence parenting Volume 2 relates parenting to its biological roots and sets parenting in its ecological framework Volume 3 distinguishes among the cast of characters responsible for parenting and is revealing of the psychological make ups and social interests of those individuals Volume 4 describes problems of parenting as well as the promotion of positive parenting practices Written to be read and absorbed in a single sitting each chapter addresses a different but central topic in parenting and is rooted in current thinking and theory as well as classic and modern research on that topic All chapters follow a standard organization including an introduction to the chapter as a whole followed by historical considerations of the topic a discussion of central issues and theory a review of classic and modern research forecasts of future directions for theory and research and a conclusion In addition to considering their own convictions and research the chapter contributors present and broadly interpret all major points of view and central lines of inquiry

Social Influences and Socialization in Infancy S. Feinman, Michael Lewis, 2013-06-29

How are we to understand the complex forces that shape human behavior A variety of diverse perspectives drawing on studies of human behavioral ontogeny as well as humanity's evolutionary heritage seem to provide the best likelihood of success It is in an attempt to synthesize such potentially disparate approaches to human development into an integrated whole that we undertake this series on the genesis of behavior In many respects the incredible burgeoning of research in child development over the last two decades or so seems like a thousand lines of inquiry spreading outward in an incoherent starburst of effort The need exists to provide on an ongoing basis an arena of discourse within which the threads of continuity among those diverse lines of research on human development can be woven into a fabric of meaning and understanding Scientists scholars and those who attempt to translate their efforts into the practical realities of the care and guidance of infants and children are the audience that we seek to reach Each requires the opportunity to see to the degree that our knowledge in given areas permits various aspects of development in a coherent integrated fashion It is hoped that this series which brings together research on infant biology developing infant capacities animal models and impact of social cultural and familial forces on development and the distorted products of such forces under certain circumstances serves these important social and scientific needs

Parenting Behaviour and Children's Cognitive Development Sara Meadows, 2013-10-23

The association between parents behaviour and children's cognitive development is at the meeting place of several prominent theories of psychological development and a range of complex methodological and conceptual issues On the one hand there are theories which argue that the impetus of development is within the child and is largely unaffected by his or her experience of social interaction on the other are the commonsense experience of parents and educators and the body of neo Vygotskian theory which would see the child s development as profoundly affected by social interaction or even constituted by it The purpose of this book is to examine theories and evidence carefully in order to assess the causal links between parent behaviour and children s cognitive development There is a considerable amount of evidence that suggests an association between parents behaviour and their children s cognitive development but there are many possible explanations for this association including direct effects of parental teaching styles on the children s learning and motivation differential social class practices and opportunities genetic resemblances and methodological artifacts A close and critical look at a wide range of research and of theory is necessary if the causal questions are to be clarified This book develops the current arguments about the nature and causes of cognitive development providing a critical discussion of the available research and relating it to psychological theory It is suitable for advanced students of psychology and education

The Evolution of Personality and Individual Differences David M. Buss,2011 Capturing a scientific change in thinking about personality and individual differences this volume provides theories and empirical evidence which suggest that personality and individual differences are central to evolved psychological mechanisms and behavioural functioning

Parenting Tom Luster,Lynn Okagaki,2006-04-21 This is an update of their 1993 book with us This volume will focus on factors that influence parental behavior New additions to this volume include fathers gender of parent children with special needs ethnicity and socioeconomic status and parent e

Continuity and Change in Family Relations Rand D. Conger,Frederick O. Lorenz,K.A.S. Wickrama,2004-04-12 The chapters in this volume were developed as a follow up to the Summer Institute entitled Continuity and Change Family Structure and Process conducted by the second Family Research Consortium The goal of this book is to provide readers with a greater understanding of both the conceptual issues involved in the study of continuity and change in families and also some of the methodological approaches that have been developed for investigating families over time

Gene-environment Processes in Social Behaviors and Relationships Kirby D. Deater-Deckard,Stephen A. Petrill,2001 Family Environment and Intellectual Functioning Elena L. Grigorenko,Robert J. Sternberg,2001-04 What is the impact of the family environment on us particularly with regard to our intellectual functioning Does the role of early family environment wear off as some researchers have suggested or does it maintain or possibly even become more important as we grow older This book examines the interrelationship between family environment and intellectual functioning in a lifespan perspective Covering a wide range of topics it provides the most comprehensive and up to date examination of life span family influences on various aspects of intellectual function For cognitive development lifespan and educational psychologists and scholars studying the family and its influences this volume will help students learn about family effects researchers update themselves in this active area of investigation therapists understand problems in intellectual functioning in their clients and in treating these clients successfully and educators gain a better grasp on how the students they teach are products not only of their genes and environments in general but of their family environments in particular

Family Relationships in Middle Childhood Joanne Coldwell, Alison Pike, Judy Dunn, 2006-07-20 Combining the perspectives of parents and young children aged 4-8 this book explores how family members relate to each other during middle childhood

Nature, Nurture, and the Transition to Early Adolescence Stephen A. Petrill Department of Biobehavioral Health and the Center for Developmental and Health Genetics Pennsylvania State University, London Robert Plomin Research Professor in Behavioural Genetics Institute of Psychiatry, London John C. DeFries Professor of Psychology and Faculty Fellow Institute of Psychiatry, University of Colorado John K. Hewitt Professor of Psychology and Director Both at Institute for Behavioral Genetics, 2003-03-05 Some of the most intriguing issues in the study of cognitive social emotional and physical development arise in the debate over nature versus nurture a debate difficult to resolve because it is difficult to separate the respective contributions of genes and environment to development The most powerful approach to this separation is through longitudinal adoption studies The Colorado Adoption Project CAP is the only longitudinal adoption study in existence examining development continuously from birth to adolescence which makes it a unique powerful and tremendously valuable resource CAP is an ongoing assessment of 245 adopted children and 245 biological control children assessed from birth to early adolescence This book is the fourth in a series describing CAP results This latest volume edited by four eminent researchers in developmental psychology builds on the large body of research already generated by investigating the role of genes and environments on early adolescent development Because it is the only volume on the most comprehensive investigation of the effect of genes and environments on early adolescent development this work will be invaluable to researchers in developmental cognitive and social psychology

Child Development for Child Care and Protection Workers Brigid Daniel, Sally Wassell, Robbie Gilligan, 2011-02-12 This is a classic text for students and practitioners in the child care and protection field which summarises important current thinking on child development and applies it directly to practice The book covers key issues such as resilience and vulnerability and the impact of protective or adverse environments

The Development of Emotion Regulation and Dysregulation Judy Garber, 1991-05-31 Provides a developmental perspective of the regulation and dysregulation of emotion in particular how children learn about feelings and how they learn to deal with both positive and negative feelings Emotion regulation involves the interaction of physical behavioral and cognitive processes in response to changes in one's emotional state The changes can be brought on by factors internal to the individual e.g. biological or external e.g. other people Featuring contributions from leading researchers in developmental psychopathology the volume concentrates on recent theories and data concerning the development of emotion regulation with an emphasis on both intrapersonal and interpersonal processes Original conceptualizations of the reciprocal influences among the various response systems neurophysiological biochemical behavioral expressive and subjective experiential are provided and the individual chapters address both normal and psychopathological forms of emotion regulation particularly depression and aggression from infancy through adolescence This book will appeal to specialists in developmental clinical and social psychology psychiatry education and others interested in understanding the developmental processes involved in the regulation of emotion over the course of childhood

The Blackwell Handbook of Early Childhood Development Kathleen McCartney, Deborah Phillips, 2011-09-07 The Blackwell Handbook of Early Childhood Development presents a comprehensive summary of research into child development from age two to seven Comprises 30 contributions from both established scholars and emerging leaders in the field The editors have a distinguished reputation in early childhood development Covers biological development cognitive development language development and social emotional and regulatory development Considers the applications of psychology to the care and education of young children treating issues such as poverty media and the transition to school A valuable resource for students scholars and practitioners dealing with young children
