

built against exterior walls. The air flow will warm the exterior wall surface, reducing or eliminating condensation and preventing possible ice formation.

Install a dehumidifier appliance.

During prolonged, continuous use, a dehumidifying appliance may be more comfortable and effective in removing excess moisture from the interior air. While use of a dehumidifier is not a "cure-all", and ventilation, storm windows, and moisture reduction continue to be important, operation of the dehumidifier will reduce the amount of outside air needed for ventilation. Heating load on the furnace will be reduced, and the interior will be less drafty.

FIRE SAFETY

The hazard and possibility of fire exists in all areas of life, and the recreational life-style is no exception. Your motor home is a complex machine made up of many materials — some of them flammable. But like most hazards, the possibility of fire can be minimized, if not totally eliminated, by recognizing the danger and practicing common sense safety and maintenance habits.

Fires are generally caused by unattended food cooking on the stove or in the oven, faulty or damaged wiring and electrical devices, fuel leaks (both gasoline and LPG), or carelessness. Under the right circumstances, almost anything can be destroyed by fire. The fire extinguisher furnished with your motor home is rated for Class B (gasoline, grease, flammable liquids) and Class C (electrical) fires since these are the most common types of fires in vehicles. Read the instructions on the fire extinguisher. Know how and when to use it.

Consider these fire safety suggestions:

- * If you experience a fire while traveling, MAINTAIN CONTROL OF THE VEHICLE UNTIL YOU CAN SAFELY STOP IT. EVACUATE THE VEHICLE AS QUICKLY AND SAFELY AS POSSIBLE.

- * If you experience a fire while camped, EVACUATE THE VEHICLE AS QUICKLY AND SAFELY AS POSSIBLE.
- * Consider the cause and severity of the fire and the risk involved before trying to put it out. If the fire is major or is fuel-fed, stand clear of the vehicle and wait for the fire department or other emergency assistance.
- * If your motor home is damaged by fire, do not drive it or live in it until you have thoroughly examined it, found the cause of the fire, and fixed it.

Smoke Detector

A smoke detector is furnished with your motor home as a warning device. See "APPLIANCES" section. Instructions for its operation and testing are included in your Owner's Information Package. Read these instructions and follow the test procedures outlined.
