

Revised STAAR English I and II Assessments

As of spring 2014, the English I and II reading and writing assessments will be combined to become one assessment—English I and English II EOC. The chart below was adapted from TEA released chart which demonstrated the difference between the separate reading and writing tests and the newly revised combined test. This information is intended to help teachers and administrators understand the new time constraints of the redesigned test, as well as revisit the instructional implications of the English I and II STAAR content.

Reporting Categories	Redesigned STAAR English (Embedded Field Testing)	Instructional Implications

Students should be able to identify author's "tools" and articulate how they affect meaning Student will need to understand and apply the specific academic vocabulary associated with literary and informational reading Examples of authors' craft items: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Why does the author include a particular paragraph? Why does the author begin or end a piece in a particular way? Why does the author include a description of 200? How does a plot, paragraph, or author use imagery, simile, metaphor, hyperbole, personification, time disruptions (flashback, foreshadowing) to create meaning? How does the author organize the selection? Why does the author organize the information in a particular way?
Reporting Category 3: Understanding/Analysis of Informational Texts	11 MC
