Phenomenologies of the Stranger Richard

Kearney, Kascha Semonovitch, 2011 What is strange Or better who is strange When do we encounter the strange This volume takes the question of hosting the Stranger to the deeper level of embodied imagination and the senses It asks How does the embodied imagination relate to the Stranger in terms of hospitality or hostility given the common root of hostis as both host and enemy How do humans sense the dimension of the strange and alien in different religions arts and cultures How do the five physical senses relate to the spiritual senses especially the famous sixth sense as portals to an encounter with the Other Is there a carnal perception of alterity which would operate at an affective prereflective preconscious level What exactly do embodied imaginaries of hospitality and hostility entail And what finally are the topical implications of these questions for an ethics and practice of tolerance and peace

In the Company of Strangers Barry McCrea, 2011 This title shows how a reconception of family and kinship underlies the revolutionary experiments of the modernist novel While stories of marriage and long lost relatives were a mainstay of classic Victorian fiction the book suggests that rival countercurrents within these family plots set the stage for the formal innovations of Joyce and Proust By investigating how the question of family is a hidden key to modernist structure and style the book explores the formal narrative potential of queerness and in doing so rewrites the history of the modern novel

Land of Strangers Ash Amin, 2013-04-24 The impersonality of social relationships in the society of strangers is making majorities increasingly nostalgic for a time of closer personal ties and strong community moorings The constitutive pluralism and hybridity of modern living in the West is being rejected in an age of heightened anxiety over the future and drummed up aversion towards the stranger Minorities migrants and dissidents are expected to stay away or to conform and integrate as they come to be framed in an optic of the social as interpersonal or communitarian Judging these developments as dangerous this book offers a counter argument by looking to relations that are not reducible to local or social ties in order to offer new suggestions for living in diversity and for forging a different politics of the stranger The book explains the balance between positive and negative public feelings as the synthesis of habits of interaction in varied spaces of collective being from the workplace and urban space to intimate publics and tropes of imagined community The book proposes a series of interventions that make for public being as both unconscious habit and cultivated craft of negotiating difference radiating civilities of situated attachment and indifference towards the strangeness of others It is in the labour of cultivating the commons in a variety of ways that Amin finds the elements for a new politics of diversity appropriate for our times one that takes the stranger as there unavoidable an equal claimant on ground that is not pre allocated A
