Animation Behind the Iron Curtain Eleanor Cowen, 2020-09-22 Animation Behind the Iron Curtain is a journey of discovery into the world of Soviet era animation from Eastern Bloc countries From Jerzy Kucia's brutally exquisite Reflections in Poland to the sci fi adventure of Ott in Space by Estonian puppet master Elbert Tuganov to the endearing Gopo's little man by Ion Popescu Gopo in Romania this excursion into Soviet era animation brings to light magnificent art ruminations on the human condition and celebrations of innocence and joy As art reveals the spirit of the times animation art of Eastern Europe during the Cold War funded by the Soviet states allowed artists to create works illuminating to their experiences hopes and fears The political ideology of the time ironically supported these artists while simultaneously suppressing more direct critiques of Soviet life Politics shaped the world of these artists who then fashioned their realities into amazing works of animation Their art is integral to the circumstances in which they lived which is why this book combines the unlikely combination of world politics and animated cartoons The phenomenal animated films shared in this book offer a glimpse into the culture and hearts of Soviet citizens who grew up with characters as familiar and beloved to them as Mickey Mouse and Bugs Bunny are to Americans This book lays out the basic political dynamics of the Cold War and how those political tensions affected the animation industry in both the US and in the Eastern Bloc And for animation novices and enthusiasts alike Animation Behind the Iron Curtain also offers breakout sections to explain many of the techniques and aesthetic considerations that go into this fascinating art form This book is a must read for anyone interested in the Cold War era and really cool animated films

Literary Translation Ida Klitgård, 2006 This volume of Angles on the English Speaking World discusses the intriguing inter relatedness between the concepts and phenomena of world literature and translation The term worlding presented by Stru Eysteinnsson in this collection is coined by Sarah Lawell in her book Reading World Literature 1994 where it denotes the reader's pleasurable reading of the meeting of worlds in a literary translation i.e. the meeting of the different cultural environments embodied in a translation from one language into another Through such reading the reader in fact participates in creating true world literature This is a somewhat unorthodox conception of world literature conventionally defined as great literature shelved in a majestic canonical library In the opening article sparking off the theme of this collection Eysteinnsson asks Which text does the concept of world literature refer to It can hardly allude exclusively to the original which the majority of the work's readers may never get to know On the other hand it hardly refers to the various translations as seen apart from the original It seems to have a crucial bearing on the border between the two and on the very idea that the work merits the move across this linguistic and cultural border to reside in more than two languages Picking up on this question at issue all the essays in this collection throw light on the problematic mechanics of cultural encounters when reading the world in literary translation i.e. in the texts themselves as well as in the ways in which they have become institutionalised as world literature
