

Biotechnology Notes - Biofermenter with Batch and Continuous processes

Write down all of the parts of the biofermenter and explain their importance

Batch

Batch processes: raw materials & microbes are placed together in a container vessel.

- The microbes are then allowed to grow to their maximum population size.
- The fermenter is emptied.
- The products are extracted & purified

Continuous

Continuous process: the nutrients are continually inputted into the fermentation vessel.

- The material is continually removed & processed.

This may be more economical, as it doesn't have to be shut down on a regular basis
