New Perspectives in Southeast Asian and Pacific Prehistory Philip J. Piper, Hirofumi Matsumura, David Bulbeck, 2017-03-24 This volume brings together a diversity of international scholars unified in the theme of expanding scientific knowledge about humanity's past in the Asia Pacific region The contents in total encompass a deep time range concerning the origins and dispersals of anatomically modern humans the lifestyles of Pleistocene and early Holocene Palaeolithic hunter gatherers the emergence of Neolithic farming communities and the development of Iron Age societies These core enduring issues continue to be explored throughout the vast region covered here accordingly with a richness of results as shown by the authors Befitting of the grand scope of this volume the individual contributions articulate perspectives from multiple study areas and lines of evidence Many of the chapters showcase new primary field data from archaeological sites in Southeast Asia Equally important other chapters provide updated regional summaries of research in archaeology linguistics and human biology from East Asia through to the Western Pacific Mike T Carson Associate Professor of Archaeology Micronesian Area Research Center University of Guam

Humans in the Siberian Landscapes Vladimir N. Bocharnikov, Alina N. Steblyanskaya, 2022-09-25 This book considers theoretical issues of the ethnocultural landscape concepts at large as well as examples of its practical application in ethnic communities of Siberia It reveals the patterns of the processes of penetration settlement development and adaptation of Siberian populations from Paleolithic time to Russian colonization in the era of the Russian Empire during Soviet modernization and in the face of modern challenges The authors consider the principal interactions character stages conditions system related evidence and phenomena that determine the diverse specifics and multidirectional vectors of a change in the ethnic social cultural economic legal presence in large subregions of Siberia in the mirror of various theoretical paradigms This transdisciplinary volume appeals to researchers lecturers and students in the fields of geography history philosophy anthropology ecology archaeology and interfaces to many other disciplines First Islanders Peter Bellwood, 2017-04-10 Incorporating research findings over the last twenty years First Islanders examines the human prehistory of Island Southeast Asia This fascinating story is explored from a broad swathe of multidisciplinary perspectives and pays close attention to migration in the period dating from 1.5 million years ago to the development of Indic kingdoms late in the first millennium CE The Oxford Handbook of Global Studies Mark Juergensmeyer, Manfred B. Steger, Saskia Sassen, 2018-11-07 The Oxford Handbook of Global Studies provides an overview of the emerging field of global studies Since the end of the Cold War globalization has been reshaping the modern world and an array of new scholarship has risen to make sense of it in its various transnational manifestations including economic social cultural ideological technological environmental and in new communications The editors Mark Juergensmeyer Saskia Sassen and Manfred Steger are recognized authorities in this emerging field and have gathered an esteemed cast of contributors to discuss various aspects in the field through a broad range of approaches Several essays focus on the emergence of the field and its historical antecedents Other essays explore analytic and conceptual approaches to teaching and research in global studies and the largest section will deal with the subject matter of global studies challenges from diasporas and pandemics to the global city and the emergence of a transnational capitalist class The final two sections feature essays that take a critical view of globalization from diverse perspectives and essays on global citizenship the ideas and institutions that guide an emerging global civil society This Handbook focuses on global studies more than on the phenomenon of globalization itself though the various aspects of globalization are central to understanding how the field is currently being shaped The Archaeology of Caribbean and Circum-Caribbean Farmers (6000 BC - AD 1500) Basil Reid, 2018-05-16 Comprising 17 chapters and with a wide geographic reach stretching from the Florida Keys in the north to the Guianas in the south this volume places a well needed academic spotlight on what is generally considered an integral topic in Caribbean and circum Caribbean archaeology The book explores a variety of issues including the introduction and dispersal of early cultivars plant manipulation animal domestication dietary profiles and landscape modifications Tried and true and novel analytical techniques are used to tease out aspects of the Caribbean and circum Caribbean database that inform the complex and often subtle processes of domestication under varying socio environmental conditions Contributors discuss their findings within multiple constructs such as neolithisation social interaction trade mobility social complexity migration colonisation and historical ecology Multiple data sources are used which include but are not restricted to rock art cooking pits and pots stable isotopes dental calculus and pathologies starch grains and proxies for past environmental conditions Given its multi disciplinary approaches this volume should be of immense value to both researchers and students of Caribbean archaeology biogeography ethnobotany zooarchaeology historical ecology agriculture environmental studies history and other related fields First

Islanders Peter S. Bellwood, 2017 Bio-anthropological Studies of Early Holocene Hunter-gatherer Sites at Huiyaotian and Liyupo in Guangxi, China Hirofumi Matsumura, 2017 In the Balance Candice Lee Goucher, Charles A. Le Guin, Linda A. Walton, 1998 This is volume one of a two volume world history text The book takes a thematic approach exploring different civilizations in a comparative manner and central themes are used to highlight the interconnectedness of the world's development across cultures and time The approach is roughly chronological though the organization deals with broader comparative issues such as the family The text explores how different parts of the world often follow similar paths even at different times and how similarities or differences in development can be revealing about particular societies for example a chapter on gods goddesses and god kings in Asia Africa and the Americas The book places less emphasis on political history and more on social economic and cultural with coverage of gender and family The section openers have comparative chronological charts to help keep the student oriented with respect to events in different parts of the world and learning aids include debating the past boxes daily life boxes two four colour photo essays and marginal heads to help keep track of the testable material

Things in Motion Rosemary A. Joyce, Susan D. Gillespie, 2015-06-09 Complementing the concept of object biography the contributors to this volume use the complex construct of itineraries to trace the places in which objects come to rest or are active the routes through which things circulate and the means by which they are moved

Migration and Mortality in Africa and the Atlantic World, 1700-1900 Philip D. Curtin, 2001 These papers explore the history of the tropical regions of the Atlantic basin sometimes focused on the Caribbean sometimes on Africa but always with a comparative dimension The Atlantic basin is central to most of these comparisons but they are a part of an even broader effort to capture the perspective of world history Some deal with the shores of the Atlantic in the framework of economic history but the author's concern is most particularly with the role of the environment in history especially the disease environment Disease was particularly important for migrants who moved from one disease environment to another In the tropical Atlantic disease was a crucial factor in the formation of the slave trade affecting both the involuntary passengers and those who came out from Europe to manage the trade

Global Life Systems Robert P. Clark, 2000 Humans did not begin as a global species we had to expand to become one And we could not have done so without other living organisms becoming global along with us Robert P Clark develops in this book a global life systems perspective that delineates how biological forces mutually reinforce one another and what their globalization has meant for both human society and the biosphere While he resists biological determinism Clark traces interconnected developments among population disease agriculture trade fuels and other life systems to more thoroughly explore and elucidate the globalization of human endeavors within an ever evolving context of nature and environment His lucid and richly documented book offers a fresh look at social evolution and a broader basis for understanding the contemporary context for global change

World Prehistory John M. Coles, Robert Bewley, Paul Mellars, British Academy, 1999 This edited book details some of the new developments in the major fields of interest of the late Grahame Clark one of the foremost figures in prehistoric archaeology The perspective is global with studies from Australia on American archaeology South east Asia Scandinavia Northern Europe Southern France and Turkey Image and Imagination Colin Renfrew,Iain Morley,McDonald Institute for Archaeological Research,2007 This volume is published as part of the Roots of Spirituality project funded by the John Templeton Foundation at the McDonald Institute for Archaeological Research Migration History in World History Jan Lucassen,Leo Lucassen,Patrick Manning,2010-01-01 Migration is the talk of the town On the whole however the current situation is seen as resulting from unique political upheavals Such a historical interpretations ignore the fact that migration is a fundamental phenomenon in human societies from the beginning and plays a crucial role in the cultural economic political and social developments and innovations So far however most studies are limited to the last four centuries largely ignoring the spectacular advances made in other disciplines which study the deep past like anthropology archaeology population genetics and linguistics and that reach back as far as 80 000 years ago This is the first book that offers an overview of the state of the art in these disciplines and shows how historians and social scientists working in the recent past can profit from their insights Publisher description
