Never Say You've Had a Lucky Life Joseph Epstein, 2024-04-16 A rich and comic portrait of the radical changes in American life and the literary world over the last eighty years An autobiography usually requires a justification The great autobiographies those by Benvenuto Cellini Jean Jacques Rousseau Benjamin Franklin and Henry Brooks Adams were justified by their authors living in interesting times harboring radically new ideas or participating in great events Joseph Epstein qualifies on none of these counts His life has been quiet lucky in numerous ways and far from dramatic But it has also been emblematic of the great changes in our country since World War II He grew up in a petit bourgeois Midwestern milieu and the city of Chicago looms large in his life He drew a lucky ticket in the parent lottery and his was a happy boyhood spent on playgrounds and hanging around drug stores At high school dances he was the rhumba king and at drive in movies he was never allowed to go as far with girls as he so ardently desired At twenty six after two years in the army he found himself married the father or stepfather of four children and living in New York on the meager salary of a magazine subeditor He was ablaze with ambition and fettered by frustration He broke out by moving to Little Rock Arkansas to direct the city's anti poverty program at the height of the Civil Rights movement His writing career blossomed he began teaching at Northwestern University and for twenty five years edited one of great intellectual magazines Never Say You've Had a Lucky Life is an intimate look at one life steeped in radical change from a traditionally moral culture to a therapeutic one from an era when the extended family was strong to its current diminished status from print to digital life featuring the war of pixel on print and on But for all the seriousness of Epstein's themes this book is memorable for its comic point of view and the constant reminder of how unpredictable various and wondrously rich life can be Marjorie Dean, College Junior Josephine Chase, 2018-09-20
