

Educational Management vs. Educational Leadership

Management normally focuses on works and tasks. These activities fit within the subject of resource: Human, time, money, equipment, and anything else that involves achieving a task. The distinction, therefore, from management vs. leadership is on managing resource within the constraints of the systems and enforcing the desired standards of work.

The Importance Of Leadership And Management For Education:

Leadership and Management Development in Education Tony Bush, 2008-03-17 This is a very good and much needed book. Written by a very experienced researcher and teacher in the education leadership world, it brings together a wealth of understanding and insights in the field of leadership and management development in education. International Journal of Educational Management. This book is an excellent survey of practice on a truly international scale which many will find valuable. Educational Management Administration and Leadership. Few people could be better qualified to write about this topic than Tony Bush. The book draws on a wealth of experience and detailed research. Typically, it is extremely well structured, written with great clarity, and combines the highest levels of scholarship with an accessible style that will enable it to appeal to a wide audience. This is a book that many in the field have been waiting for. Professor Mark Brundrett, Professor of Educational Research, Liverpool John Moores University, Liverpool. This book is far and away the best international comparative study of leadership development for schools. There are countless books highlighting the importance of leadership, but none have satisfactorily gone to the heart of the issue, especially for developed and developing countries, and Tony Bush has done it here. It is a sure guide to policymakers, practitioners, and researchers who want to make a difference. Professor Brian J. Caldwell, Managing Director of Educational Transformations and former Dean of Education at the University of Melbourne, Australia. Leadership is critical to educational development, and specific preparation is vital if leaders are to maximise their effectiveness. In this major new text, Tony Bush draws on his extensive international experience and research to examine the case for leadership development and assess the different modes of preparation used in Europe, including the U.K., North America, Asia Pacific, Australia, New Zealand, and Africa. He also examines research on how leadership impacts on school and student outcomes and considers future directions for leadership and management development in education. This text is essential reading for students of educational leadership and management, as well as for policy makers, headteachers, and principals.

Leadership and Management in Education Marianne Coleman, 2005 This edited text provides an international perspective on leadership and management roles and their relationship to improvement within educational institutions. The interactions of educational institutions are examined at local, national, and global levels, with case studies and examples being drawn from many countries in Europe, Asia, and Africa. Two main themes are explored. The first is the move to site-based management for educational institutions linked to improvement. The second investigates the idea of learning for all and explores the ways in which leadership and management can contribute towards the development and enhancement of student learning, staff development, and institutional growth. The authors, who are mainly drawn from the Institute of Education, University of London, make full use of the whole range of international literature relating to educational leadership, management, and administration, providing a textbook for masters-level students.

Leadership and Strategic Management in Education Tony Bush, Marianne Coleman, 2000-05-31 This is one of very few texts to give recognition to the difficulties in large institutions and to give practical advice about the degree to which collegiality can be built into strategic planning The authors provide an overview of all aspects of leadership within education giving ample references within each section for more detailed study Mentoring and Tutoring The book would constitute a good starting point for anyone wishing to understand contemporary developments in educational management Educational Research Leadership and strategic management are both issues of central importance in raising achievement in schools and colleges and thus are at the heart of the educational debate today This book is concerned with such major issues as the nature of strategic management in education the importance of vision and mission styles of leadership models of educational management and the purposes of strategic management which here are equated with the effectiveness and improvement of the institution It will be invaluable for students of educational management such as those following masters degrees It is also directly relevant to teachers and lecturers and schools of all phases and in further education colleges particularly those who have or aspire to management responsibilities The textbook is designed to be used either to accompany a taught course or for self study via distance learning thus practical and reflective activities are included

Abdulai, 2016-04-01 In African Centred Management Education Professor Abdulai looks critically at the failings of management education in Africa and how that has impacted growth and development efforts especially at this critical stage in the continent's positive growth and development trajectory He concludes that Africa's current positive economic growth cannot be sustained without a significant contribution from its human capital He adds that the outstanding economic record of Asian economies in recent decades dramatically illustrates how important human capital is to growth These countries lacking natural resources and importing practically all their energy requirements have grown rapidly by relying on a well trained educated and conscientious workforce Professor Abdulai believes that Africa too can sustain its current growth and development by effectively combining its abundant natural resources with its human capital to attain its economic development but this will require an African cadre of well trained managers at the helm of both private and public sector institutions For this to become a reality management education in Africa will have to play a significant role but the author argues that it cannot be effective by continually mimicking the West in the programmes it delivers It must come up with innovative and relevant pedagogy that will address the special challenges that the continent faces and deliver an African centred management education As well as pointing to the failures of management education in Africa Abdulai offers suggestions as to how to make management education really contribute to the education of Africans in order to sustain current and future development
