Mapping Psychopathology with fMRI and Effective Connectivity Analysis Baojuan Li,Adeel Razi,Karl J.

Friston,2017-06-22 There is a growing appreciation that many psychiatric and neurological conditions can be understood as functional disconnection syndromes as reflected in aberrant functional integration and synaptic connectivity This Research Topic considers recent advances in understanding psychopathology in terms of aberrant effective connectivity as measured noninvasively using functional magnetic resonance imaging fMRI Recently there has been increasing interest in inferring directed connectivity effective connectivity from fMRI data Effective connectivity refers to the influence that one neural system exerts over another and quantifies the directed coupling among brain regions and how they change with pathophysiology Compared to functional connectivity effective connectivity allows one to understand how brain regions interact with each other in terms of context sensitive changes and directed coupling and therefore may provide mechanistic insights into the neural basis of psychopathology Established models of effective connectivity include psychophysiological interaction PPI structural equation modeling SEM and dynamic causal modelling DCM DCM is unique because it explicitly models the interaction among brain regions in terms of latent neuronal activity Moreover recent advances in DCM such as stochastic and spectral DCM make it possible to characterize the interaction between different brain regions both at rest and during a cognitive task

Plant-Fire Interactions Víctor Resco de Dios, 2020-03-17 This book provides a unique exploration of the inter relationships between the science of plant environmental responses and the understanding and management of forest fires It bridges the gap between plant ecologists interested in the functional and evolutionary consequences of fire in ecosystems with foresters and fire managers interested in effectively reducing fire hazard and damage This innovation in this study lies in its focus on the physiological responses of plants that are of relevance for predicting forest fire risk behaviour and management It covers the evolutionary trade offs in the resistance of plants to fire and drought and its implications for predicting fuel moisture and fire risk the importance of floristics and plant traits in interaction with landform and atmospheric conditions to successfully predict fire behaviour and provides recommendations for pre and post fire management in relation with the functional composition of the community The book will be particularly focused on examples from Mediterranean environments but the underlying principles will be of broader utility Library Linked Data in the

Cloud Carol Jean Godby, Shenghui Wang, Jeffrey K. Mixer, 2022-06-01 This book describes OCLC's contributions to the transformation of the Internet from a web of documents to a Web of Data The new Web is a growing cloud of interconnected resources that identify the things people want to know about when they approach the Internet with an information need The linked data architecture has achieved critical mass just as it has become clear that library standards for resource description are nearing obsolescence Working for the world's largest library cooperative OCLC researchers have been active participants in the development of next generation standards for library resource description By engaging with an international community of library and Web standards experts they have published some of the most widely used RDF datasets representing library collections and librarianship This book focuses on the conceptual and technical challenges involved in publishing linked data derived from traditional library metadata This transformation is a high priority because most searches for information start not in the library nor even in a Web accessible library catalog but elsewhere on the Internet Modeling data in a form that the broader Web understands will project the value of libraries into the Digital Information Age The exposition is aimed at librarians archivists computer scientists and other professionals interested in modeling bibliographic descriptions as linked data It aims to achieve a balanced treatment of theory technical detail and practical application
