Taylor, Jasmin Zine, 2014-06-27 Following a long historical legacy Muslim women's lives continue to be represented and circulate widely as a vehicle of intercultural understanding within a context of the war on terror Following Edward Said's thesis that these cultural forms reflect and participate in the power plays of empire this volume examines the popular and widespread production and reception of Muslim women's lives and narratives in literature poetry cinema television and popular culture within the politics of a post-9/11 world This edited collection provides a timely exploration into the pedagogical and ethical possibilities opened up by transnational feminist and anti-colonial readings that can work against sensationalized and stereotypical representations of Muslim women It addresses the gap in contemporary theoretical discourse amongst educators teaching literary and cultural texts by and about Muslim Women and brings scholars from the fields of education literary and cultural studies and Muslim women's studies to examine the politics and ethics of transnational anti-colonial reading practices and pedagogy The book features interviews with Muslim women artists and cultural producers who provide engaging reflections on the transformative role of the arts as a form of critical public pedagogy

The House of Djinn Suzanne Fisher Staples, 2008-04-01 Suzanne Fisher Staples returns to modern day Pakistan to reexamine the juxtaposition of traditional Islamic values with modern ideals of love in this commanding standalone sequel to Shabanu Daughter of the Wind and Haveli. It has been ten years since Shabanu staged her death to secure the safety of her daughter Mumtaz from her husband's murderous brother. Mumtaz has been raised by her father's family with the education and security her mother desired for her but with little understanding and love. Only her American cousin Jameel, her closest confidant and friend, and the beloved family patriarch Baba understand the pain of her loneliness. When Baba unexpectedly dies, Jameel's succession as the Amirzai tribal leader and the arrangement of his marriage to Mumtaz are revealed, causing both to question whether fulfilling their duty to the family is worth giving up their dreams for the future. The House of Djinn is a 2009 Bank Street Best Children's Book of the Year.

Critical Global Perspectives Binaya Subedi,2010-03-01 The primary purpose of this book is to invite educators to re think what it means to critically conceptualize knowledge about the world In other words imagining curriculum in a critical way means decolonizing mainstream knowledge about global societies Such an approach re evaluates how we have come to know the world and asks us to consider the socio political context in which we have come to understand what constitutes an ethical global imagination A critical reading of the world calls for the need to examine alternative ways of knowing and teaching about the world a pedagogy that recognizes how diverse subjects have come to view the world A critical question this book raises is What are the radical ways of re conceptualizing curriculum knowledge about global societies so that we can become accountable to the different ways people have come to experience the world Another question the book raises is how do we engage with complexities surrounding social differences such as gender race ethnicity religion etc in the global contexts Analyzing global issues and events through the prism of social difference opens up spaces to advocate a transformative framework for a global education curriculum Transformative in the sense that such a curriculum asks students to challenge stereotypes and engages students in advocating changes within local global contexts A critical global perspective advocates the value of going beyond the nation state centered approach to teaching about topics such as history politics culture etc It calls for the need to develop curriculum that accounts for transnational formations an intervention that asks us to go beyond issues that are confined within national borders Such a practice recognizes the complicated ways the local is connected to the global and vice versa and cautions against creating a hierarchy between national and global issues It also suggests the need to critically examine the pitfalls of forming dichotomies between the local or the national and the global or the center and the periphery
