The Corporation as a Protagonist in Global History, c. 1550-1750, 2018-12-10 William A Pettigrew and David Veevers put forward a new interpretation of the role Europe's overseas corporations played in early modern global history recasting them from vehicles of national expansion to significant forces of global integration Across the Mediterranean Atlantic Indian Ocean and Pacific corporations provided a truly global framework for facilitating the circulation movement and exchange between and amongst European and non European communities bringing them directly into dialogue often for the first time Usually understood as imperial or colonial commercial enterprises The Corporation as a Protagonist in Global History reveals the unique global sociology of overseas corporations to provide a new global history in which non Europeans emerged as key stakeholders in European overseas enterprises in the early modern world Contributors include Michael D Bennett Aske Laursen Brock Liam D Haydon Lisa Hellman Leonard Hodges Emily Mann Simon Mills Chris Nierstrasz Edgar Pereira Edmond Smith Haig Smith and Anna Winterbottom University City Laura Wolf-Powers, 2022-09-20 A chronicle of neighborhood redevelopment politics in West Philadelphia over 60 years In twenty first century American cities policy makers increasingly celebrate university sponsored innovation districts as engines of inclusive growth But the story is not so simple In University City Laura Wolf Powers chronicles five decades of planning in and around the communities of West Philadelphia's University City to illuminate how the dynamics of innovation district development in the present both depart from and connect to the politics of mid twentieth century urban renewal Drawing on archival and ethnographic research Wolf Powers concludes that even as university and government leaders vow to develop without displacement what existing residents value is imperiled when innovation driven redevelopment remains accountable to the property market The book first traces the municipal and institutional politics that empowered officials to demolish a predominantly Black neighborhood near the University of Pennsylvania and Drexel University in the late 1960s to make way for the University City Science Center and University City High School It also provides new insight into organizations whose members experimented during that same period with alternative conceptions of economic advancement The book then shifts to the present documenting contemporary efforts to position university adjacent neighborhoods as locations for prosperity built on scientific knowledge Wolf Powers examines the work of mobilized civic groups to push cultural preservation concerns into the public arena and to win policies to help economically insecure families keep a foothold in changing neighborhoods Placing Philadelphia's innovation districts in the context of similar development taking place around the United States University City advocates a reorientation of redevelopment practice around the recognition that despite their negligible worth in real estate terms the time care and energy people invest in their local environments and in one another are precious urban resources Pictured on the book's cover is a luncheon on Melon Street between 37th and 38th Streets in West Philadelphia May 31 2014 The community meal was part of Funeral for a Home a project that honored the life and passing of a house at 3711 Melon Street

Behavioural and Ecological Consequences of Urban Life in Birds Caroline Isaksson, Amanda D. Rodewald, Diego Gil, 2018-06-19. Urbanization is next to global warming the largest threat to biodiversity. Indeed, it is becoming increasingly evident that many bird species get locally extinct as a result of urban development. However, many bird species benefit from urbanization, especially through the abundance of human-provided resources and increase in abundance and densities. These birds are intriguing to study in relation to their resilience and adaptation to urban environments but also in relation to their susceptibility and the potential costs of urban life. This Research Topic, consisting of 30 articles (one review, two meta-analyses and 27 original data papers), provides insights into species and population responses to urbanization through diverse lenses including biogeography, community ecology, behaviour, life history, evolution and physiology.
