Recalibrating teacher training in African higher education institutions Sifiso Sibanda,Gideon (Deon) P. van Tonder,Washington T. Dudu,2023-03-01 This book critically examines the role of governments in promoting parity during and in post pandemic education This comes from the realisation that the pandemic has deepened the crisis by depleting the meagre resources that African countries might have devoted to normative educational practices where those on the margins would have been pushed further behind while the privileged would have been further initiated into the cultural and capital flows of private schools and historically research intensive institutions of higher learning This has far reaching implications for the education of underprivileged citizens and education particularly modes and modalities of delivery has to be reimagined to subvert the challenges wrought by the pandemic This book significantly bridges the gap between the pre and post COVID 19 pandemic pedagogical practices and the erstwhile modalities that have been resilient over time The book focuses on ways to stave off pedagogical challenges that face countries as the global pandemic makes its mark

Multinational Enterprises and Emerging Economies Klaus E.Meyer,2020-03-28 Guided by the overarching question how and why does the emerging economy context matter for business this collection brings together key contributions of Klaus Meyer on multinational enterprises MNEs competing in and originating from emerging economies The book also explores how outward investment strategies contribute to building internationally competitive MNEs Climate Change and

Socio-political Violence in Sub-Saharan Africa in the Anthropocene Jean Chrysostome K. Kiyala,Norman Chivasa,2024-05-04

This book explores the theoretical contribution of peace ecology to the understanding and practice of environmental and conventional peacebuilding It integrates environmental questions and factors that drive socio political violence and climate change induced violence in Sub Saharan Africa in the Anthropocene It demonstrates how international peace and global security are no longer solely grounded in conventional peacebuilding that has evolved from liberal to democratic peace theories but rather in the complex critical and synergic relations between peace studies and environmental studies It provides a pluridisciplinary body of knowledge that emphasises the need for food security social climate social good social capital and sustainable development at the age of climate change and climate wars It underscores the potential of peace ecology to reduce the Earth systems vulnerability to mitigate anthropogenic global warming s consequences on humanity the ecosystem and biodiversity It yields various models of peacebuilding conflict sensitive and climate sensitive adaptation strategies to enhance the African Region s security and stability Finally this volume argues that planetary boundaries framework remains the safer space within which human and sustainable development can be pursued and attained and future generations to thrive A comprehensive and international response to socio political violence and climate change induced violence should take into account the vulnerability of individual countries regions and the global world in order to achieve the dreams of a better future that makes this book a cutting edge scholarly work Infectious Disease Mr. Rohit Manglik,2024-07-30

Covers etiology transmission clinical features and prevention of infectious diseases with emphasis on global health and epidemiology Climate Risks to Water Security Hemant Ojha,Nicholas Schofield,Jeff Camkin,2023-01-07 In Asia and the Pacific climate change is now a well recognised risk to water security but responses to this risk are either under reported or continue to be guided by the incremental or business as usual approaches Water policy still tends to remain too narrow and fragmented compared to the multi sectoral and cross scalar nature of risks to water security What s more current water security debates tend to be framed in discipline specific or academic ways failing to understand decision making and problem solving contexts within which policy actors and partitioners have to operate on a daily basis Much of the efforts to date has focussed on assessing and predicting the risks in the context of increasing levels of uncertainty There is still limited analysis of emerging practices of risks assessment and mitigation in different contexts in Asia and the Pacific Going beyond the national scales and focussing on several socio ecological zones this book captures stories written by engaged scholars on recent attempts to develop cross sectoral and cross scaler solutions to assess and mitigate risks to water security across Asia and the Pacific Identifying lessons from successes and failures it highlights management and strategic lessons that water and climate leaders of Asia and the Pacific need to consider This book showcases reflective and analytical thought pieces written by key actors in the climate and water spaces Several critical socio ecological zones are covered from Pakistan in the west to pacific islands in the east The chapters clearly identify strategies for improvement based on the analysis of emerging responses to climate risks to water security and gaps in current practices The book will include an editorial introduction and a final synthesis chapter to ensure clear articulation of common themes and to highlight the overall messages of the book Higher Education for Democratic Innovation Sjur Bergan,Tony Gallagher,Ira Harkavy,2015 Democracy is increasingly the standard against which societies are measured The term democratic culture designates the set of attitudes and behaviours that citizens need to have for democratic institutions and laws to function in practice This is an important development from older perceptions of democracy which focused on institutions laws and procedures It is a recognition that democracy will not function unless citizens want it to function In all countries there are committed individuals aspiring to make their societies better democracies As the Secretary General of the Council of Europe Thorbjørn Jagland has said on several occasions our societies seek to address 21st century issues through 19th century institutions Through contributions by authors from Europe North America and other parts of the world this book explores how higher education can help find new ways to develop commitment to public space and societal engagement and make democracy more vibrant
