A Student's Guide to Academic and Professional Writing in Education Katie O. Arosteguy, Alison Bright, Brenda J. Rinard, 2019. This concise handbook helps educators write for the rhetorical situations they will face as students of education and as preservice and practicing teachers. It provides clear and helpful advice for responding to the varying contexts, audiences, and purposes that arise in four written categories in education: classroom research, credential and stakeholder writing. The book moves from academic to professional writing, and chapters include a discussion of relevant genres, mentor texts with salient features, identified visual aids, and exercises that ask students to apply their understanding of the concepts. Readers learn about the scholarly and qualitative research processes prevalent in the field of education and are encouraged to use writing to facilitate change that improves teaching and learning conditions. At the heart of this book is a commitment to the value of teachers' voices. From the Foreword by Mya Poe, director, Writing Program, Northeastern University. This book is one tool to help prospective educators embrace all the writing that is to come. Anne Elrod, Whitney Penn State College of Education. The authors know the questions students might ask and the places where they might misstep. The book is supportive, analytical, logically sequenced, clear, and student-friendly. Tim Dewar, UC Santa Barbara.

On Second Language Writing Tony Silva, Paul Kei Matsuda, 2012-12-06. On Second Language Writing brings together internationally recognized scholars in a collection of original articles that collectively delineate and explore central issues with regard to theory, research, instruction, assessment, politics, articulation with other disciplines, and standards. In recent years, there has been a dramatic growth of interest in second language writing, and writing instruction in many parts of the world. Although an increasing number of researchers and teachers in both second language studies and composition studies have come to identify themselves as specialists in second language writing, research and teaching practices have been dispersed into several different disciplinary and institutional contexts because of the interdisciplinary nature of the field. This volume is the first to bring together prominent second language writing specialists to systematically address basic issues in the field and to consider the state of the art at the end of the century and the millennium.
