Tuokko,Thomas Hadjistavropoulos,2014-04-04 At least half of all neuropsychological assessments are performed on elderly persons but the information clinicians need to make appropriate judgment calls is widely scattered Several books offering general descriptions of the cognitive functioning of the aged or of neuropsychological conditions affecting them are helpful to practitioners but do not provide reliable and valid normative information Two books that do provide this information do not focus on geriatric populations A concise yet comprehensive summary of what we now know about those over 65 with an extensive bibliography An Assessment Guide to Geriatric Neuropsychology fills the gap The neuropsychological assessment of elderly persons involves not only the performance based measurement of various capacities but heavy reliance on reports from caregivers both formal and informal about the day to day functioning of the affected person It also raises important yet often neglected ethical concerns The authors discuss all the measures that detect and discriminate among cognitive disorders of elderly persons including special measures relevant to caregiver reports and provide useful tables to assist in differential diagnosis They also reflect on the ethical issues that often confront the assessor of an elderly individual informed consent confidentiality the right of bodily autonomy and self determination and appropriate feedback This book will be an invaluable resource for all those called on to evaluate older clients Clinician's Guide To Neuropsychological

Assessment Rodney D. Vanderploeg,2014-04-04 Neuropsychological assessment is a difficult and complicated process Often experienced clinicians as well as trainees and students gloss over fundamental problems or fail to consider potential sources of error Since formal test data on the surface appear unambiguous and objective they may fall into the habit of overemphasizing tests and their scores and underemphasizing all the factors that affect the validity reliability and interpretability of test data But interpretation is far from straightforward and a pragmatic application of assessment results requires attention to a multitude of issues This long awaited updated and greatly expanded second edition of the Clinician's Guide to Neuropsychological Assessment like the first focuses on the clinical practice of neuropsychology Orienting readers to the entire multitude of issues it guides them step by step through evaluation and helps them avoid common misconceptions mistakes and methodological pitfalls It is divided into three sections fundamental elements of the assessment process special issues settings and populations and new approaches and methodologies The authors all of whom are actively engaged in the clinical practice of neuropsychological assessment as well as in teaching and research do an outstanding job of integrating the academic and the practical The Clinician's Guide to Neuropsychological Assessment Second Edition will be welcomed as a text for graduate courses but also as an invaluable hands on handbook for interns postdoctoral fellows and experienced neuropsychologists alike No other book offers its combination of breadth across batteries and approaches depth and practicality Airman's Guide ,1960 Forensic Neuropsychology in Practice Susan Young,Michael Kopelman,Gisli Gudjonsson,2009-06-25 Clinical psychologists are increasingly asked to prepare reports for legal purposes often outside the scope of their own area These might involve the mental state or neuropsychological effects of an injury to their client or to a third party This is a practical reference text for those working in these important areas of forensic consultancy Revisiting the Assessment of Second Language Abilities: From Theory to Practice Sahbi Hidri,2018-01-12 This book presents an overview of revisiting the assessment of language abilities It also showcases how the measurement of such constructs can result in negative or positive washback and how outcomes might be conducive to repercussions that decide on the future of many stakeholders The 23 chapters were selected among tens of chapters received from different contexts that addressed the issue of revisiting the assessment of language abilities such as Tunisia Ukraine Algeria Russia KSA Sudan Egypt Canada Kurdistan UK USA Iran Turkey etc These contexts have highlighted the necessity to revisit the different constructs which should be assessed with a clear and straightforward foundation on students learning objectives and their actual language ability To do so most of the chapters present hands on use of relevant statistical tests that might serve in revisiting the construct definition both theoretically and operationally Perhaps the sole and intricate question that the authors of these contributions ask is what it means to revisit the assessment of the construct of individualized language ability and how In addition the book accentuates the momentousness and significance of reflecting on test fairness and validation as the mainspring and backbone for democratization of assessment This book appeals to a broad readership such as English Language Teaching ELT practitioners language teachers students testing organizations policy makers test designers writers of test specifications testing experts researchers program evaluators especially in the Middle East and North Africa MENA as well as other international contexts Practitioner's Guide to Evaluating Change with Neuropsychological Assessment Instruments Robert J. McCaffrey,Kevin Duff,Holly James Westervelt,2013-11-11 The impetus for this volume began with our research in the 1980 s involving serial neuropsychological evaluation with various patient populations At that time reports on the practice effects associated with routinely utilized clinical neuropsychological instruments were sparse While test retest data were available for almost all assessment instruments this was usually in the form of correlation coefficients and not changes in mean performance between or across assessment periods see McCaffrey Westervelt 1995 for a detailed discussion of these and related issues Clinical neuropsychological practitioners had few guidelines to assist them in determining if a change in a patient s performance across assessments was due to an intervention maturation practice effects or a combination of factors This volume represents our efforts at reviewing the literature between 1970 and 1998 and extracting the reported information on practice effects The tables include the assessment instrument used information on the subject patient groups the sample size n gender age intervention interval between the assessments scores at both assessment points and the citation Those studies that reported data on more than two assessment points are indicated by a notation however any data beyond the second assessment are not reported and the interested reader should refer to the original article The tables are arranged alphabetically for the most widely used assessment instruments Those instruments for which there was limited data on practice effects are grouped by domain e g
