Thomas R. Guskey, Jane M. Bailey, 2010 Providing a clear framework this volume helps school leaders align assessment and reporting practices with standards based education and develop more detailed reports of children s learning and progress

The Writing Report Card, 1984-88 Arthur N. Applebee, 1990 Based on two national assessments of the writing proficiency of representative samples of students in grades 4 8 and 11 conducted during the school years ending in 1984 and 1988 this report assesses the informative persuasive and imaginative writing performance of the nation s students and tracks changes in performance over time The first three chapters of the report describe student performance on the informative persuasive and imaginative writing tasks included in the writing trend assessments based on the results of the primary trait and holistic analyses The fourth chapter summarizes trends in average task accomplishment for the nation and various demographic subpopulations In the fifth chapter trends in students grammar punctuation and spelling are discussed The sixth chapter discusses factors that appear to be related to writing performance such as students instructional experiences and home environment The report concludes that despite some progress on some tasks students writing performance across tasks remains low and has changed little across time The report also finds that the extent to which students at all grade levels value writing use it in their own lives and engage in writing process activities remains quite limited A procedural appendix and an appendix of data are attached RS

Rethinking Grading Cathy Vatterott,2015-07-13 Grading systems often reward on time task completion and penalize disorganization and bad behavior Despite our best intentions grades seem to reflect student compliance more than student learning and engagement In the process we inadvertently subvert the learning process After careful research and years of experiences with grading as a teacher and a parent Cathy Vatterott examines and debunks traditional practices and policies of grading in K 12 schools She offers a new paradigm for standards based grading that focuses on student mastery of content and gives concrete examples from elementary middle and high schools Rethinking Grading will show all educators how standards based grading can authentically reflect student progress and learning and significantly improve both teaching and learning Cathy Vatterott is an education professor and researcher at the University of Missouri St Louis a former middle school teacher and principal and a parent of a college graduate She has learned from her workshops that grading continues to be the most contentious part conjuring up the most intense emotions and heated disagreements Vatterott is also the author of the book Rethinking Homework Best Practices That Support Diverse Needs

The Other Side of the Report Card Maurice J. Elias, Joseph J. Ferrito, Dominic C. Mocer, 2015-12-14 To better serve the whole child look at the whole report card Although parents and teachers spend more time in conferences talking about behavior than they do about rubrics and test scores too many teachers are still guessing when it comes to using outdated behavior ratings and comments to describe the whole child With this book you ll take report cards to the next level integrating social emotional learning and character development into any grading system Resources include Guided exercises for analyzing existing report cards Suggested report card designs Tips on improving teacher parent communication Case studies Testimonials from teachers and students
