Giving Voice Meryl Alper, 2017-01-20 How communication technologies meant to empower people with speech disorders to give voice to the voiceless are still subject to disempowering structural inequalities Mobile technologies are often hailed as a way to give voice to the voiceless Behind the praise though are beliefs about technology as a gateway to opportunity and voice as a metaphor for agency and self representation In Giving Voice Meryl Alper explores these assumptions by looking closely at one such case the use of the Apple iPad and mobile app Proloquo2Go which converts icons and text into synthetic speech by children with disabilities including autism and cerebral palsy and their families She finds that despite claims to empowerment the hardware and software are still subject to disempowering structural inequalities Views of technology as a great equalizer she illustrates rarely account for all the ways that culture law policy and even technology itself can reinforce disparity particularly for those with disabilities Alper explores among other things alternative understandings of voice the surprising sociotechnical importance of the iPad case and convergences and divergences in the lives of parents across class She shows that working class and low income parents understand the app and other communication technologies differently from upper and middle class parents and that the institutional ecosystem reflects a bias toward those more privileged Handing someone a talking tablet computer does not in itself give that person a voice Alper finds that the ability to mobilize social economic and cultural capital shapes the extent to which individuals can not only speak but be heard

The New Landscape of Mobile Learning Charles Miller, Aaron Doering, 2014-02-24 The New Landscape of Mobile Learning is the first book to provide a research based overview of the largely untapped array of potential tools that mobile Learning offers educators and students in face to face, hybrid and distance education. This cutting edge guide provides an essential explanation of the emergence and role of Apps in education, Design guidelines for educational Apps, Case studies and student narratives from across the US describing successful App integration into both K-12 and Higher Education, Robust research based evaluation criteria for educational Apps. Although many believe that Apps have the potential to create opportunities for transformative mobile education, a disparity currently exists between the individuals responsible for creating Apps, i.e. developers who often have little to no instructional experience and the ultimate consumers in the classroom, i.e. K-20 educators and students. The New Landscape of Mobile Learning bridges this gap by illuminating critical design, integration and evaluation narratives from leaders in the instructional design, distance education and mobile learning fields.

Educating Young Children With and Without Exceptionalities Tachelle Banks, Festus E. Obiakor, Jessica Graves, Anthony F. Rotatori, 2019-02-01 Early childhood education (ECE) has always been intertwined with the use of developmentally appropriate practice (DAP). To support excellence in ECE, it is critical how the knowledge about individual children and child development principles combined with the knowledge of effective early learning practices. Effective early childhood education involves an interdisciplinary collaborative process that is influenced by many factors We present these aforementioned realities in Educating Young Children With and Without Exceptionalities New Perspectives In addition we argue that general and special educators need to focus on applying new knowledge to better address critical issues that advance the field of educator preparation and improve educational outcomes for young children Early childhood research confirms the need for intensive intervention and remedial education we need to avoid approaches that are too little or too late Also proven to yield positive results for children are practices familiar to early childhood educators These practices include relationship based teaching and learning partnering with families adapting teaching for children from different backgrounds and for individual children active meaningful and connected learning and smaller class sizes Evidence of the benefits of these practices suggests that they should be extended more widely into the elementary grades
