Inheritance and Speculation in Victorian Fiction Noa Reich, 2024-06-30 Inheritance and Speculation in Victorian Fiction: Finance, Family and the Law investigates how Victorian fiction reconfigures the narrative and social conventions of inheritance While recent criticism has concentrated on this fiction's engagement with newer financial forms this book contends that Victorian novels both attest to the persistence of inheritance and reveal its unsettling affinities with speculative forms Focusing on Emily Brontë's Wuthering Heights (1847) Charles Dickens's Our Mutual Friend (1864–65) Wilkie Collins's Armada (1866) and George Eliot's Middlemarch (1871–72) each chapter explores a recurring pattern of contrast and conflation between inheritance and financial speculation Taking an interdisciplinary historical and formal approach Reich shows how this pattern gives narrative shape to concerns that were also emerging in contemporary political and legal debates around succession bequest landed estates and conceptions of the family Attending to the novels' concrete and figurative allusions to these forms as well as their tentative alternatives Reich also illustrates how the novels' self-reflexive subversion of both characters and readers expectations based on inheritance conventions challenge our modes of reading Inheritance and Speculation thus not only illuminates the integral role played by inheritance in Victorian fiction s mediation of the credit economy but also offers a new understanding of the complex role of convention in this fiction Novels in the Time of Democratic Writing Nancy Armstrong, Leonard Tennenhouse, 2018-01-19 In the decades after U S independence American novelists carried on an argument that pitted direct democracy against the representative liberalism they attributed to their British counterparts The result was an American novel distinguished by its use of narrative tropes that generated a social system resembling today s distributed network

The Oxford Handbook of Developmental Psychology, Vol. 1 Philip David Zelazo, 2013-03-21 This handbook provides a comprehensive survey of what is now known about psychological development from birth to biological maturity and it highlights how cultural social cognitive neural and molecular processes work together to yield human behavior and changes in human behavior

The Cambridge Companion to the Irish Novel John Wilson Foster, 2006-12-14 The Irish novel has had a distinguished history It spans such diverse authors as James Joyce George Moore Maria Edgeworth Bram Stoker Flann O Brien Samuel Beckett Lady Morgan John Banville and others Yet it has until now received less critical attention than Irish poetry and drama This volume covers three hundred years of Irish achievement in fiction with essays on key genres themes and authors It provides critiques of individual works accounts of important novelists and histories of sub genres and allied narrative forms establishing significant social and political contexts for dozens of novels The varied perspectives and emphases by more than a dozen critics and literary historians ensure that the Irish novel receives due tribute for its colour variety and linguistic verve Each chapter features recommended further reading This is the perfect overview for students of the Irish novel from the romances of the seventeenth century to the present day

How Ficta Follow Fiction Alberto Voltolini, 2006-11-22 This book is devoted to fictional entities or to be more precise fictional entities as they emerge from the literary process of storytelling They encompass the great immortal figures in human literature Don Quixote Faust Sherlock Holmes and so on as well as the protagonists of single novels such as Anna Karenina Emma Woodhouse and Emma Bovary and even the unknown characters in the oral tradition of storytelling developed by small communities of people for their own entertainment This is presumably how Achilles Penelope and Ulysses originated We must also include among these figures mythological characters such as Apollo Odin and Zeus regardless of the fact that they were originally thought to be supernatural beings rather than fictional individuals The subject of this book is not new which may make it seem less appealing to a prospective reader just one more book on fictional entities Yet I would argue that this apparent drawback is fundamental to the purpose of the book which is to present a syncretistic doctrine of fictional entities In other words it is a theory which firmly acknowledges that the various other theories already developed on this subject have great merits Their main flaw however is not that they are wrong but rather that they are incomplete Accordingly they are not to be put to one side instead they need to be integrated into a single theory that aims both to maintain their positive results and to overcome their defects The Man of Property John Galsworthy, 1909 Mistress of the House Tim Dolin, 1997 This is a collection of essays on the theme of women and property in Victorian fiction The work comments on texts such as Shirley Cranford Villette The Moonstone works by Thomas Hardy and Diana of the Crossways

The Anglo-Irish Novel and the Big House Vera Kreilkamp, 1998-10-01 This book is a comprehensive study of the ascendancy novel from Maria Edgeworth's Castle Rackrent 1800 through contemporary reinventions of the form Kreilkamp argues that Irish fiction needs to be rescued from the critical assumptions underlying attacks on the historical mythologies of Yeats and the Literary Revival Exploring the uniquely Irish dimensions of colonial and post colonial societies Kreilkamp charts the self critical formulations of a gentry culture facing its extinction more often and more successfully with comic irony than nostalgia Kreilkamp positions the Big House novels within current debates in postcolonial criticism and theory She argues that these fictional representations of a beleaguered society provide a complex nuanced gaze into a hybrid colonial group that distanced itself from the self aggrandizements of the revivalists As she examines the gothic revisionist and postmodern permutations of an enduring national form she illustrates the ways ascendancy women transformed conventions of an English domestic genre into political fiction Her attention to Edgeworth's Irish works the fiction of the neglected Victorian novelist Charles Lever and the gothic forms of the Big House by Sheridan Le Fanu and Charles Maturin provide a historical context for later reformulations of the genre by Somerville and Ross Elizabeth Bowen Molly Keane William Trevor Jennifer Johnston Aidan Higgins and John Banville Physicalism and Its Discontents Carl Gillett, Barry Loewer, 2001-11-26 A collection of essays by physicalists and their critics on the important doctrine of physicalism first published in 2001

Women and Property in the Eighteenth-Century English Novel April London, 1999-06-28 This book investigates the critical importance of women to the eighteenth century debate on property as conducted in the fiction of the period April London argues that contemporary novels advanced several often conflicting interpretations of the relation of women to property ranging from straightforward assertions of equivalence between women and things to subtle explorations of the self possession open to those denied a full civic identity Two contemporary models for the defining of selfhood through reference to property structure the book one historical classical republicanism and bourgeois individualism and the other literary pastoral and georgic These paradigms offer a cultural context for the analysis of both canonical and less well known writers from Samuel Richardson and Henry Mackenzie to Clara Reeve and Jane West While this study focuses on fiction from 1740 1800 it also draws on the historiography literary criticism and philosophy of the period and on recent feminist and cultural studies Inductive Logic Dov M. Gabbay, John Woods, 2011-05-27 Inductive Logic is number ten in the 11 volume Handbook of the History of Logic While there are many examples where a science split from philosophy and became autonomous such as physics with Newton and biology with Darwin and while there are perhaps topics that are of exclusively philosophical interest inductive logic as this handbook attests is a research field where philosophers and scientists fruitfully and constructively interact This handbook covers the rich history of scientific turning points in Inductive Logic including probability theory and decision theory Written by leading researchers in the field both this volume and the Handbook as a whole are definitive reference tools for senior undergraduates graduate students and researchers in the history of logic the history of philosophy and any discipline such as mathematics computer science cognitive psychology and artificial intelligence for whom the historical background of his or her work is a salient consideration Chapter on the Port Royal contributions to probability theory and decision theory Serves as a singular contribution to the intellectual history of the 20th century Contains the latest scholarly discoveries and interpretative insights The Business of Film Stephen R.

Langbauer argues that our worldview is shaped not just by great public events but also by the most overlooked and familiar aspects of common life the everyday This sphere of the everyday has always been a crucial component of the novel but has been ignored by many writers and critics and long associated with the writing of women Focusing on the linked series of novels characteristic of later Victorian and early modern fiction such as Margaret Oliphant's Carlingford Chronicles or the Sherlock Holmes stories she investigates how authors make use of the everyday as a foundation to support their versions of realism What happens when in the series novel or in contemporary theory the everyday becomes a site of contestation and debate Langbauer pursues this question through the novels of Margaret Oliphant Charlotte Yonge Anthony Trollope and Arthur Conan Doyle and in the writings of Dorothy Richardson Virginia Woolf and John Galsworthy as they reflect on their Victorian predecessors She also explores accounts of the everyday in the works of such theorists as Henri Lefebvre Michel de Certeau and Sigmund Freud as well as materialist critics including George Lukacs Max Horkheimer and Theodor Adorno Her work shows how these writers link the series and the everyday in ways that reveal different approaches to comprehending the obscurity that makes up daily life Copyright Law Desk Book Akhil Prasad, Aditi Agarwala, Akhil Prasad, 2009

Modernity and the English Rural Novel Dominic Head, 2017-04-07 This book re-evaluates the rural English novel in the twentieth century in relation to the recognised artistic responses to modernity. It argues that the most important writers in this tradition have had a very significant bearing on the trajectory of English cultural life through the modernist period and beyond The Introduction to Dutch Jurisprudence of Hugo Grotius Hugo Grotius, 1845 Five Long Winters John

Bugg, 2013-12-18 This book argues that the British government's repression of the 1790s rivals the French Revolution as the most important historical event for our understanding the development of Romantic literature. Romanticism has long been associated with both rebellion and escapism and much Romantic historicism traces an arc from the outburst of democratic energy in British culture triggered by the French Revolution to a dwindling of enthusiasm later in the 1790s when things in France turned violent. Writers such as Wordsworth and Coleridge can then be seen as apostates who turned from radical politics to a poetics of transcendence. Bugg argues instead for a poetics of silence and his book is set against the backdrop of the so-called Gagging Acts and other legislation of William Pitt which in literature manifests itself stylistically as silence, stuttering, fragmentation and encoding. Mining archives of unpublished documents including manuscripts, diaries and letters where authors were more candid as well as rereading the work of both major and minor figures, a number of whom were subject to prison sentences, Five Long Winters offers a new way of approaching the literature of the Romantic era The Athenaeum, 1890 Transatlantic Literary Exchanges, 1790-1870 Dr Julia M Wright, Dr Kevin Hutchings, 2013-05-28 Exploring the ways in which transatlantic relationships functioned in the nineteenth century to unsettle hierarchical models of gender, race and national and cultural differences, this collection demonstrates the generative potential of transatlantic studies to loosen demographic frames and challenge conveniently linear histories. The contributors take up a rich and varied range of topics including Charlotte Smith's novelistic treatment of the American Revolution, The Old Manor House, Anna Jameson's counter-discursive constructions of gender in a travelogue, Felicia Hemans, Herman Melville and the Queer Atlantic, representations of indigenous religion and shamanism in British Romantic literary discourse, the mid-nineteenth-century transatlantic abolitionist movement, the transatlantic adventure novel, the exchanges of transatlantic print culture facilitated by the Minerva Press, British and Anglo-American representations of Niagara Falls and Charles Brockden Brown's intervention in the literature of exploration. Taken together, the essays underscore the strategic power of the concept of the transatlantic to enable new perspectives on the politics of gender, race and cultural difference as manifested in late eighteenth and nineteenth-century Britain and North America.
