What Are The Economic Essays Paper2 Grd11 2014 November:

Essays on a Mature Economy: Britain After 1840 Deirdre McCloskey, 2013-11-05 These unique papers were originally read at a conference on the new economic history of Britain at Harvard in 1970 and each is accompanied by a summary of the discussion that followed it The participants of the conference represented a broad range of scholars from both sides of the Atlantic The first eleven papers deal with a variety of topics covering a period from 1840 to the 1920s They focus on the performance of the British economy and especially its businessmen during the time of Britain's industrial maturity and relative decline The papers and discussions reached a novel conclusion that contrary to commonly held opinion the British economy performed well and that British businessmen were not lacking in entrepreneurial vigour compared with their German or American counterparts But even more important for British historiography than this finding was the demonstration that economic and statistical methods can be applied successfully to the study of economic history The papers in the concluding section discuss the origins and development of the new economic history and show that as a substantial supplement to work along more traditional lines its methods and application are both desirable and possible This collection serves as an interesting report of research into a key period in British history and also as a useful introductory account of the new economic history in the United Kingdom This book was first published in 1971 The Sociology and on Climate Change. Working Group III., 1996-06-27 The consequences of climate change for society are analysed in this landmark assessment from the IPCC This book assesses the available knowledge on the many issues that society has to face including the international decision making framework applicability to climate change of techniques for assessing costs and benefits the significant social costs of projected climate change and the economic assessment of policy instruments to combat climate change nationally and internationally Some important conclusions of this Second Assessment Report indicate that 10 to 30% of greenhouse gas emissions in most countries can be reduced at negative or zero cost no regrets measures Also the literature indicates that climate change will cause aggregate net damage which provides an economic rationale for going beyond no regrets measures It also indicates that a portfolio of mitigation adaptation and research measures is a sound strategy for addressing climate change given the remaining uncertainties This report speaks directly to the issues that are faced by the many countries committed to limit emissions of greenhouse gases by the year 2000 and currently negotiating actions to be taken beyond that date Will be of great value to the international community of policymakers interested in the
