Makers M. Meredith Morris,2006-04-30 This adaptable instrument s origins date back centuries Celtic legends amuse us with mystical stories describing the creation of stringed music but practical history recounts that the modern birth of the violin occurred in Italy as early as the sixteenth century The skilled craft of hand production was renowned in France as well but it is the British classic type and its history that W Meredith Morris writes about in British Violin Makers This classic comprehensive reference to violin making reprinted in 1920 features a biographical dictionary of craftsmen along with many of their signatures and marks Twenty six photographs of selected makers and their instruments help place the contemporary reader in the style of the period Reverend Morris s second edition improves upon the first 1904 edition by adding more than 150 names to the list of makers who produced six violins or more A new foreword by music scholar Benjamin Hebbert explains the important role British violin makers played in the development of the instrument From Morris s narrative one gets a feel for the importance of the craftsman and his materials He explains the various types of wood and varnish used and how they along with the arch and contour work together to produce a specific tone Speaking with fervor the way a wine connoisseur does when describing a certain vintage Morris compares and contrasts the quality of British instruments to that of other nations Violin Making Bruce Ossman,1999 If you have always wanted to build your own violin but felt

The Violin-makers of the Low Countries (Belgium and Holland) Max Möller, 1955 Handbook of Materials for String Musical Instruments Voichita Bucur, 2016-08-29 This book addresses core questions about the role of materials in general and of wood in particular in the construction of string instruments used in the modern symphony orchestra violins violas cellos and basses Further attention is given to materials for classical guitars harps harpsichords and pianos While some of the approaches discussed are traditional most of them depend upon new scientific approaches to the study of the structure of materials such as for example wood cell structure which is visible only using modern high resolution microscopic techniques Many examples of modern and classical instruments are examined together with the relevance of classical techniques for the treatment of wood Composite materials especially designed for soundboards could be a good substitute for some traditional wood species The body and soundboard of the instrument are of major importance for their acoustical properties but the study also examines traditional and new wood species used for items such as bows the instrument neck string pegs etc Wood species properties for musical instruments and growth origins of woods used by great makers such as Antonio Stradivari are examined and compared with more recently grown woods available to current makers The role of varnish in the appearance and acoustics of the final instrument is also discussed since it has often been proposed as a secret ingredient used by great makers Aspects related to strings are commented As well as discussing these subjects with many illustrations from classical and contemporary instruments the book gives attention to conservation and restoration of old instruments and the physical results of these techniques There is also discussion of the current value of old instruments both for modern performances and as works of art having great monetary value The book will be of interest and value to researchers advanced students music historians and contemporary string instrument makers Musicians in general particularly those playing string instruments will also find its revelations fascinating It will also attract the attention of those using wood for a variety of other purposes for its use in musical instruments uncovers many of its fundamental features Professor Neville H Fletcher Australian National University Canberra

Hands, Skills, Tools Sarah May, Sinah Osner, Fabian Stransky, Janine Wildhage, 2025 Violin makers are striving to create instruments of perfect sound and form At this they move between contradictory objectives the canonized standards and one's own creativity The violin making schools occupy a powerful position in this negotiation process while their attitudes practices and objectives differ substantially Accordingly it is necessary to answer the question comparatively How is violin making taught and learned in European schools at present and how do they respond to technical and cultural changes This volume explores parallels and differences between learning and teaching in the violin making schools in different European countries In order to realize this work the cooperation of a violin maker a cultural anthropologist and two photographers proves to be as necessary as fruitful since the implicit knowledge of the craftsmanship needs to be understood on the levels of observation experience and dialogue against a culture analytical background PD Dr Sarah May geb 1983 in Bad Friedrichshall studierte Empirische Kulturwissenschaft Rhetorik Romanistik und Medienwissenschaft in Tübingen und wurde dort mit einer Arbeit zur Konstituierung von Cultural Property promoviert Seit Oktober 2016 ist sie wissenschaftliche Mitarbeiterin Post Doc am Freiburger Institut
