Routledge Handbook of Human Rights and Climate Governance Sébastien Duyck, Sébastien Jodoin, Alyssa Johl, 2018-02-15 Over the last decade the world has increasingly grappled with the complex linkages emerging between efforts to combat climate change and to protect human rights around the world The Paris Climate Agreement adopted in December 2015 recognized the necessity for governments to take into consideration their human rights obligations when taking climate action. However, important gaps remain in understanding how human rights can be used in practice to develop and implement effective and equitable solutions to climate change at multiple levels of governance. This book brings together leading scholars and practitioners to offer a timely and comprehensive analysis of the opportunities and challenges for integrating human rights in diverse areas and forms of global climate governance. The first half of the book explores how human rights principles and obligations can be used to reconceive climate governance and shape responses to particular aspects of climate change. The second half of the book identifies lessons in the integration of human rights in climate advocacy and governance and sets out future directions in this burgeoning domain. Featuring a diverse range of contributors and case studies, this Handbook will be an essential resource for students, scholars, practitioners, and policy makers with an interest in climate law and governance, human rights, and international environmental law. Trade Policy

Review, 2018 World Bank East Asia and Pacific Economic Update, April 2019 World Bank, 2019-04-23. Despite global economic volatility, growth in developing East Asia and Pacific (EAP) was resilient during 2018 and in the first quarter of 2019. The growth outlook for developing EAP is expected to soften in 2019 as China's economic expansion continues to moderate. Downside risks remain, including expected moderated global demand, continued trade tensions, the risk of a faster than expected financial tightening in developed economies, the risk of weaker than expected growth in China, and continued financial market volatility. Also, or in combination, these risks could weigh on the region's growth prospects in the short to medium term. To manage global and regional headwinds, developing EAP economies should reduce short-term vulnerabilities and enhance buffers, redouble their commitment to an open rules-based international trade and investment framework, including through deeper regional economic integration and deepen structural reforms. The intensification of risks underscores the need to continue to enhance economic security by investing in human capital and strengthen social assistance.
