Australia Columpar relies heavily on textual analysis of the films but also explores contextual issues in filmmaking such as funding personnel modes of production and means of distribution Part one of Unsettling Sights focuses on contact narratives in which the Aboriginal subject is constructed in reactive response to a colonizing or invading presence Films such as The Piano and The Proposition wherein a white man goes native and The New World and Map of the Human Heart which approach contact from the perspective of an Aboriginal character serve as occasions to examine the ways in which Aboriginal identities are negotiated within dominant cinema Part two shifts the focus from contact narratives to films that seek to define Aboriginality on its own terms with reference to a lost homeland and or Indigenous practices of hi story telling while texts such as Once Were Warriors and Smoke Signals foster an engagement with issues of deterritorialization relocation and urbanization discussion of beDevil Atanarjuat and The Business of Fancydancing among others bring questions of voice translation and the relationship between cinema and oral tradition to the forefront Unsettling Sights is the first significant scholarly examination of Aboriginality and cinema in an international context and will be invaluable to scholars and students in many fields including cinema studies anthropology critical race studies cultural studies and postcolonial studies

Religion and Film Stefanie Knauss,2020-01-29 Is cinema evil or sacramental Can films make theological contributions Can film viewing be a religious practice How do films values and power interact The study of film and religion engages a range of diverse questions through different approaches and methods In this contribution I distinguish three complementary approaches In the first part I discuss those that focus on the film as text the representation of religion in film and how theology happens in film The next section will broaden this perspective by taking into consideration how films affect audiences and how the relationship between film and audience might have religious dimensions or serve religious functions In the third part attention to the text and the audience are combined with the consideration of both film and religion as agents in cultural processes in order to think about how film and religion are shaped by and shape value systems and ideologies In the last section I will begin to tackle the difficult question of theory and method I consciously postpone this part until the end because in many cases methodologies and theoretical frameworks are implied in and emerge from concrete case studies rather than being consciously reflected upon This final section has two goals it will make explicit some of these underlying assumptions to serve as a starting point for a more sustained reflection on the theories and methodologies of the field and it will highlight some of the pitfalls we encounter if we are not methodologically and theoretically precise in our work

Not Hollywood Sherry B. Ortner,2013-02-27 The pioneering anthropologist Sherry B Ortner combines her trademark ethnographic expertise with critical film interpretation to explore the independent film scene in New York and Los Angeles since the late 1980s Not Hollywood is both a study of the lived experience of that scene and a critical examination of America as seen through the lenses of independent filmmakers Based on interviews with scores of directors and producers Ortner reveals the culture and practices of indie filmmaking including the conviction of those involved that their films unlike Hollywood movies are telling the truth about American life These films often illuminate the dark side of American society through narratives about the family the economy and politics in today s neoliberal era Offering insightful interpretations of many of these films Ortner argues that during the past three decades independent American cinema has functioned as a vital form of cultural critique
