Bibliokrafi ya Sesotho sa Leboa go fihla ka 1993, 1994 Child Language Barbara C. Lust, 2006-09-21 The remarkable way in which young children acquire language has long fascinated linguists and developmental psychologists alike Language is a skill that we have essentially mastered by the age of three and with incredible ease and speed despite the complexity of the task This accessible textbook introduces the field of child language acquisition exploring language development from birth Setting out the key theoretical debates it considers questions such as what characteristics of the human mind make it possible to acquire language how far acquisition is biologically programmed and how far it is influenced by our environment what makes second language learning in adulthood different from first language acquisition and whether the specific stages in language development are universal across languages Clear and comprehensive it is set to become a key text for all courses in child language acquisition within linguistics developmental psychology and cognitive science

User-Centric Studies in Game Translation and Accessibility Mikołaj Deckert, Krzysztof W. Hejduk, 2024-11-05 This innovative collection makes the case for a push within the discipline to adopt user centric perspectives on translated video games and their corresponding accessibility features The volume demonstrates how audiovisual translation AVT and media accessibility MA involve decisions that can re shape the gaming experience of players and other audiences Contributions in the book outline this in two ways First they collectively provide an account of the prospects and challenges that come with user centric scholarly inquiry in game translation and accessibility Second complementarily they report on original studies and new exciting findings while adopting the perspective of global users Taken together the collection serves as a call to action to systematically advance research eliciting variable types of input from users who take advantage of translation and accessibility services Such research will facilitate a clearer understanding of how the particular decisions of translators and other relevant agents shape game reception This book will be of interest to scholars in both translation studies and video game research as well as those interested in media accessibility and media studies more broadly

Working with indigenous knowledge Fhumulani M. Mulaudzi, Rachel T. Lebesse, 2022 The aim of the book is to assist both local and international scholars in articulating the scholarly discourse on indigenous health attitudes practices and experiences The indigenous lens that was used to generate and disseminate indigenous knowledge in this book will strengthen indigenous scholarship thus making it accessible to a wider audience In addition the information shared in this book will add value for scholars and assist them with the indigenous knowledge needed to address sustainable development goals This book is timeous and topical as the discourse on the decolonisation of the curriculum is widely debated in the higher education space The discourse on the scholarship of indigenous knowledge as the tacit local knowledge that stems from cultural practices within communities has not been well articulated in the current health science education milieu Indigenous knowledge has remained overlooked and undermined for a very long time and the information remains untapped in local communities The scholars who conducted the research on which this book is based unearthed a wealth of knowledge which was tacit in nature and translated it into implicit knowledge that can be documented and shared with other scholars globally This knowledge will assist health care scholars in benefiting from knowledge practices and cultural beliefs that will assist them in health care planning teaching evidence based practice and further research

Translation Studies beyond the Postcolony Ilse Feinauer, Kobus Marais, 2017-01-06 This edited volume explores the role of postcolonial translation studies in addressing issues of the postcolony It investigates the retention of the notion of postcolonial translation studies and whether one could reconsider or adapt the assumptions and methodologies of postcolonial translation studies to a new understanding of the postcolony to question the impact of postcolonial translation studies in Africa to address pertinent issues The book also places the postcolony in historical perspective and takes a critical look at the failures of postcolonial approaches to translation studies The book brings together 12 chapters which are divided into three sections namely Africa the Global South and the Global North As such the volume is able to consider the postcolony and even conceptualisations beyond the postcolony in a variety of settings worldwide

African Languages in Classrooms and Academia: Intellectualisation and Empowerment through Formal Education Xolisa Tshongolo, 2024-12-02 To date there have been few comprehensive books published which deal specifically with the role of African languages in academia and formal education Motinyane Mletshe and Tshongolo as editors have produced a book that fills this gap In this timely collection of 21 chapters written in African languages and English the contributors offer a critique of both language practice in the classroom as well as language planning policy creation and implementation challenges A timely and innovative contribution in the area of language in education teaching pedagogy as well as multilingualism

Using Online Dictionaries Carolin Müller-Spitzer, 2014-02-27 Until now there has been very little research into the use of online dictionaries In contrast the market for online dictionaries is increasing both for academic lexicography and for commercial lexicography with sales figures for printed reference works in continual decline This has led to a demand for reliable empirical information on how online dictionaries are actually being used and how they could be made more user friendly The volume Using Online Dictionaries makes a substantial contribution to closing this research gap It is divided into four parts The first part contains articles on fundamental issues a research review of the empirical studies on digital dictionaries which have already been carried out and a brief methodological guideline for lexicographical researchers who are interested in conducting their own empirical research The second part contains the results of two studies that focus on general questions about the use of online dictionaries It presents empirical data on contexts of dictionary use on expectations and demands regarding online dictionaries Furthermore innovative features such as the use of multimedia elements or the option of a user adaptive interface and questions of design were assessed empirically The third part of this volume comprises more specific studies of online dictionaries an eye tracking study evaluating the new web design of the dictionary portal OWID and a log file study which tries to get to the bottom of the following question Do dictionary users look up frequent words or put differently is there a connection between how often a word is looked up and how often it appears in a corpus In the last chapter of this thematic section the question of how users judge the combination of a written paraphrase and an additional illustration in illustrated online dictionaries is addressed The last part focuses on the use of monolingual dictionaries in particular the German online dictionary elexiko In this context two online questionnaire based studies were carried out The empirical studies were conducted in the form of online surveys combining questionnaires and experimental elements and in the form of laboratory studies using eye tracking technology as well as using observational methods such as log file analyses Regarding the comprehensive research framework this volume can be relevant to lexicographers metalexicographers and linguists who are interested in the use of online dictionaries and in the development and exploration of lexicographical data for the internet as well as linguists interested in empirical methods It addresses a broad expert audience by presenting an academic subject which is currently the focus of much discussion

Africa Toyin Falola, Daniel Jean-Jacques, 2015-12-14 These volumes offer a one stop resource for researching the lives customs and cultures of Africa s nations and peoples Unparalleled in its coverage of contemporary customs in all of Africa this multivolume set is perfect for both high school and public library shelves The three volume encyclopedia will provide readers with an overview of contemporary customs and life in North Africa and sub Saharan Africa through discussions of key concepts and topics that touch everyday life among the nations peoples While this encyclopedia places emphasis on the customs and cultural practices of each state history politics and economics are also addressed Because entries average 14 000 to 15 000 words each contributors are able to expound more extensively on each country than in similar encyclopedic works with shorter entries As a result readers will gain a more complete understanding of what life is like in Africa s 54 nations and territories and will be better able to draw cross cultural comparisons based on their reading Summary of Events in Lesotho ,2012 Child Language Acquisition Ben

Ambridge,Elena V. M. Lieven,2011-03-17 Is children s language acquisition based on innate linguistic structures or built from cognitive and communicative skills This book summarises the major theoretical debates in all of the core domains of child language acquisition research phonology word learning inflectional morphology syntax and binding and includes a complete introduction to the two major contrasting theoretical approaches generativist and constructivist For each debate the predictions of the competing accounts are closely and even handedly evaluated against the empirical data The result is an evidence based review of the central issues in language acquisition research that will constitute a valuable resource for students teachers course builders and researchers alike New Directions in the Acquisition of Romance Languages João

Costa,Alexandra Fiéis,Maria João Freitas,2014-10-21 This book puts together a selection of papers presented at The Romance Turn V Workshop held in Lisbon in 2012 The papers presented at the workshop discussed general problems in the field of Language Acquisition with a special focus on data from several Romance varieties The papers in the volume cover a wide array of topics and subfields of acquisition studies including L1 and L2 acquisition typical and atypical development acquisition of syntax semantics and phonology The First Year at School: An International Perspective Peter

Tymms,Tiago Bartholo,Sarah Howie,Elena Kardanova,Mariane Campelo Koslinski,Christine Merrell,Helen Wildy,2023-06-26 This book explores an under researched but vital part of education the first year at primary elementary school The work shows that children s progress varies enormously from school to school class to class and child to child This variation is important because the more progress that children make in that first year of school the higher their academic attainment at the end of compulsory schooling The iPIPS international Performance Indicators in Primary Schools project upon which this book is based has been able to provide deeper insights into some of the key issues within and across different contexts whilst highlighting new and some ongoing issues Despite all the work there remain unanswered or new puzzling issues which are also explored We need to know how to improve the education at that stage and more broadly we need greater clarity about when children should be taught to read and be introduced to formal arithmetic in other words when they should start school We also need to be clearer about whether when and how young children should be assessed The book will suggest some answers but it will raise important questions and dilemmas for which we do not as yet have answers Smuggling in

Syntax Adriana Belletti,Chris Collins,2021 One of the fundamental properties of human language is movement where a constituent moves from one position in a sentence to another position Syntactic theory has long been concerned with properties of movement including locality restrictions Smuggling in Syntax investigates how different movement operations interact with one another focusing on the special case of smuggling First introduced by volume editor Chris Collins in 2005 the term smuggling refers to a specific type of movement interaction The contributions in this volume each describe different areas where smuggling derivations play a role including passives causatives adverb placement the dative alternation the placement of measure phrases wh in situ and word order in ergative languages The volume also addresses issues like the freezing constraint on movement and the acquisition of smuggling derivations by children In this work Adriana Belletti and Chris Collins bring together leading syntacticians to present a range of contributions on different aspects of smuggling Tackling fundamental theoretical questions with empirical consequences this volume explores one of the least understood types of movement and points the way toward new research
