Book Clubs Elizabeth Long, 2003-08 Book clubs are everywhere these days And women talk about the clubs they belong to with surprising emotion But why are the clubs so important to them And what do the women discuss when they meet To answer questions like these Elizabeth Long spent years observing and participating in women's book clubs and interviewing members from different discussion groups Far from being an isolated activity she finds reading for club members to be an active and social pursuit a crucial way for women to reflect creatively on the meaning of their lives and their place in the social order

The Secret Book Club \(Main Street #5\) Ann M. Martin, 2013-04-01 Flora Ruby Olivia and Nikki start their own summer book club when well loved books start appearing on their doorsteps in the fifth of Ann Martin's wonderful Main Street books Flora and Ruby are about to start their second summer in Camden Falls An element of mystery is instantly added when someone the girls don't know who leaves copies of a very special book on their doorstep with instructions to read and discuss it Olivia and Nikki also get books and soon the girls are starting their own book club with some very interesting ties between the books they're reading and the things they're facing over the summer. But who's their literary benefactor? The girls don't need to read Nancy Drew to track down the answer. The Richard & Judy Book Club Reader Dr Helen Cousins, Dr Jenni Ramone, 2013-05-28 In January 2004 daytime television presenters Richard Madeley and Judy Finnigan launched their book club and sparked debate about the way people in Britain from the general reader to publishers to the literati thought about books and reading. The Richard Judy Book Club Reader brings together historians of the book, literature scholars and specialists in media and cultural studies to examine the effect of the club on reading practices and the publishing and promotion of books. Beginning with an analysis of the book club's history and its ongoing development in relation to other reading groups worldwide including Oprah's, the editors consider issues of book marketing and genre. Further chapters explore the effects of the mass broadcast celebrity book club on society, literature and its marketing and popular culture. Contributors ask how readers discuss books, judge value and make choices. The collection addresses questions of authorship, authority and canon in texts connected by theme or genre, including the postcolonial, exotic, disability and representations of the body, food, books and domesticity. In addition, book club author Andrew Smith shares his experiences in a fascinating interview. Telling Stories in Book Clubs Mary Kooy, 2006-08-15 Mary Kooy's Telling Stories in Book Clubs gives us a compelling, provocative and insightful picture of teachers reading, talking and learning together. By weaving together the responses of the novice teachers' book club, the experienced teachers' book club and her own thoughtful analyses, Kooy has documented what teacher learning looks like from the inside. This book is a must-read for all those interested in professional development across the lifespan. Marilyn Cochran-Smith, Boston College. Kooy's narrative about book clubs as learning communities makes a significant contribution to both research and practice. Tying together reading, teaching and learning, the book gives us a superb example of how to nurture the intellectual and relational needs for continuous teacher growth and development. The book is a must for teachers, researchers and policymakers. Ann Lieberman, emeritus professor from Teachers College, Columbia University and Senior Scholar at the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. Mary Kooy is a gifted writer and teacher. She takes the obvious truth that we read books with other people and turns it into a compelling work of professional development. We see the communities emerge and coalesce. We see the self-reflective questioning that is at the heart of all good teaching take shape through interaction and nurturing. From the Foreword by Jo Anne Pagano, Colgate University. How to Reach and Teach All Children Through Balanced Literacy Sandra F. Rief, Julie A.
