

Making Karyotypes

(Adapted from: Prentice Hall, Lab Manual A)

Background:

Several human genetic disorders are caused by extra, missing, or damaged chromosomes. In order to study these disorders, cells from a person are grown with a chemical that stops cell division at the metaphase stage. During metaphase, a chromosome exists as two chromatids attached at the centromere. The cells are stained to reveal banding patterns and placed on glass slides. The chromosomes are observed under the microscope, where they are counted, checked for abnormalities, and photographed. The photograph is then enlarged, and the images of the chromosomes are individually cut out. The chromosomes are identified and arranged in homologous pairs. The arrangement of homologous pairs is called a karyotype. In this investigation, you will use a sketch of chromosomes to make a karyotype. You will also examine the karyotype to determine the presence of any chromosomal abnormalities.

Problem Statement: Can chromosomal abnormalities be observed?

Vocabulary: centromere, chromosomes, chromatids, genes, homologous pairs, karyotype, mutations, Trisomy 21- Down syndrome, Klinefelter syndrome, Turner syndrome
