Health: Teacher edition Linda Brower Meeks, 1987 Dirt Don't Burn Larry Roeder, Larry W. Roeder, Barry Harrelson, 2023 Dirt Don't Burn the result of novel research by the Edwin Washington Project is the story of how the Black community in Loudoun County VA fought for public education from the end of the Civil War until the end of segregation in 1968 Over the course of nearly a century various actors parents teachers white allies and others pressed to ensure their children a better future seeking to improve school facilities increase access to education and ensure that children s basic needs were met so that they could fully engage in learning Enriching the narrative are personal stories interviews and analysis of records that were almost burned after having been lost for decades The book also draws on archival NAACP files and records of educational philanthropies In telling the story of one community Dirt Don t Burn sheds new light on the larger history of segregation and equity or lack thereof in American education Primary Prevention Works George W.

Albee, Thomas P. Gullotta, 1996-12-11 I commend this book to you and urge you not only to read about the excellent programs contained herein but also to work to bring these and other high quality prevention programs into your community Share this information with your elected officials business leaders parent groups and anyone who holds a stake in your community s well being With so many pressing problems confronting children and families in America we must act now to begin to reduce the tragedy of needlessly wasted lives from the Preface by Rosalynn Carter Although mental disorders cost our nation 72.7 billion each year in treatment related support and lost productivity the funding for prevention of mental disorders has been inconsistent due in some part to a lack of confidence regarding the effectiveness of specific prevention programs This book highlights some of the most effective prevention programs in the United States and offers readers a common set of principles to reduce maladaptive behavior in ourselves our children and society Divided into five parts the book begins with an overview of prevention history in this country and next shows ways to operationalize George W. Albee s incidence formula Part 2 focuses on successful programs that increase parent child interaction and parenting ability Part 3 explores preschool programs some of which use parents as teachers others of which describe quality child care programming and programs that develop problem solving abilities in early childhood Part 4 examines school age programs ranging from interventions in school settings to developing social competency and job readiness And Part 5 focuses on prevention interventions in adulthood specifically unemployment and depression With contributions from the leading researchers in the prevention field this book provides readers with the best information available about effective prevention programs and the knowledge to develop these preventive services at both state and local community levels Primary Prevention Works will be of interest to policymakers and to researchers and practitioners in developmental psychology clinical psychology family studies social work counseling human services nursing and public health To Improve Health and Health Care Vol XI Stephen L. Isaacs, David C. Colby, 2008-02-13 Since 1972 the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation has been the nation s largest philanthropy devoted exclusively to health To further its mission of improving the health and health care of all Americans the Foundation strives to foster innovation develop ideas disseminate information and enable committed people to devote their energies to improving the nation s well being As part of the Foundation s efforts to inform the public the eleventh volume in the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation Anthology series To Improve Health and Health Care provides an in depth look into the programs it
