The Apocalypse Of Desire

Amy-Jill Levine, Maria Mayo Robbins

The Apocalypse Of Desire:

Marguerite Duras Leslie Hill, 2002-09-11 Marguerite Duras is France's best known and most controversial contemporary woman writer. Duras' influence extends from her early novels of the 1950s to her radically innovative experimental autobiographical text of the 1980s. The Lover Leslie Hill's book throws new light on Duras' relationship to feminism, psychoanalysis, sexuality, literature, film, politics, and the media. Feted by Kristeva and Lacan who claimed her as almost his other self, Duras is revealed to be a profoundly transgressive thinker and artist. It will be a must for all concerned with contemporary writing, writing by women, recent European cinema, film, and literature. Apocalyptic Bodies Tina Pippin, 2002-03-11 Apocalyptic Bodies traces the biblical notions of the end of the world as represented in ancient and modern texts, art, music, and popular culture. For example, the paintings of Bosch. Tina Pippin addresses the question of how far we in the late twentieth century are capable of reading and responding to the signs of the times. It will appeal not only to those studying religion but also to those fascinated with interpretations of the end of the world. After the End James Berger, 1999-01-01 In this study of the cultural pursuit of the end and what follows, Berger contends that every apocalyptic depiction leaves something behind: some mixture of paradise and wasteland. Combining literary, psychoanalytic, and historical methods, Berger mines these depictions for their weight and influence on current culture. He applies wide-ranging evidence from science fiction to Holocaust literature, from Thomas Pynchon to talk shows, from American politics to the fiction of Toni Morrison to reveal how representations of apocalyptic endings are indelibly marked by catastrophic histories. Gender and Apocalyptic Desire Brenda E. Brasher, Lee Quinby, 2014-12-18 The female body has been an object of oppression and control throughout history. Gender and Apocalyptic Desire exposes the often hidden links between the struggles of women and the conflict of good versus evil. The essays examine the collisions between feminist and apocalyptic thought, the ways in which apocalyptic belief functions as bodily discipline and cultural practice, and how some currents of apocalyptic desire can enable women's equality. A wide range of issues are examined, from anti-abortion terrorism to the stigmata of Christ and visions of Mary. Wallace Stevens And The Apocalyptic Mode Malcolm Woodland, 2009-11 Wallace Stevens and the Apocalyptic Mode focuses on Stevens's doubled stance toward the apocalyptic past: his simultaneous use of and resistance to apocalyptic language, two contradictory forces that have generated two dominant and incompatible interpretations of his work. The book explores the often paradoxical roles of apocalyptic and antiapocalyptic rhetoric in modernist and postmodernist poetry and theory, particularly as these emerge in the poetry of Stevens and Jorie Graham. This study begins with an examination of the textual and generic issues surrounding apocalypse, culminating in the idea of apocalyptic language as a form of discursive mastery over the mayhem of events. Woodland provides an informative religious/historical discussion of apocalypse and engaging with such critics as Paul de Man and Jacques Derrida. Fowler sets forth the paradoxes and complexities that eventually challenge any clear dualities between apocalyptic and antiapocalyptic thinking. Woodland then examines some of

Stevens's wartime essays and poems and describes Stevens's efforts to salvage a sense of self and poetic vitality in a time of war as well as his resistance to the possibility of cultural collapse Woodland discusses the major postwar poems Credences of Summer and The Auroras of Autumn in separate chapters examining the interaction of anti-apocalyptic modes with respectively pastoral and elegy The final chapter offers a perspective on Stevens's place in literary history by examining the work of a contemporary poet Jorie Graham whose poetry quotes from Stevens's oeuvre and shows other marks of his influence Woodland focuses on Graham's 1997 collection The Errancy and shows that her anti-apocalyptic poetry involves a very different attitude toward the possibility of a radical break with a particular cultural or aesthetic stance Wallace Stevens and the Apocalyptic Mode offering a new understanding of Stevens's position in literary history will greatly interest literary scholars and students

Contesting Religious Identities Bob E.J.H. Becking, Anna-Marie J.A.C.M. Korte, Lucien van Liere, 2017-01-09 Religion is a hot topic on the public stages of secular societies not in its individualized liberal or orthodox form but rather as a public statement challenging the divide between the secular neutral space and the religious In this new challenging modus religion raises questions about identity power rationality subjectivity law and safety but above all religion questions contests and even blurs the borders between the public and the private These phenomena urge to rethink what are often considered to be clear differences between religions between the public and the private and between the religious and the secular In this volume scholars from a range of different disciplines map the different aspects of the dynamics of changing contesting and contested religious identities

Rewriting Apocalypse in Canadian Fiction Marlene Goldman, 2005-08-15 Rewriting Apocalypse in Contemporary Canadian Fiction is the first book to explore the literary psychological political and cultural repercussions of the apocalypse in the fiction of Timothy Finley Michael Ondaatje Margaret Atwood Thomas King and Joy Kogawa While writers from diverse nations have adopted and adapted the biblical narrative these Canadian authors introduce particular twists to the familiar myth of the end Goldman demonstrates that they share a marked concern with purgation of the non-elect the loss experienced by the non-elect and the traumatic impact of apocalyptic violence She also analyzes Canadian apocalyptic accounts as crisis literature written in the context of the Cold War written against the fear of total destruction

Politics of Fear, Practices of Hope Stefan Skrimshire, 2011-11-03 Politics of Fear Practices of Hope is about the relationship between two hugely influential ideas in political life fear and hope How are cultures of resistance nurtured within an environment of paranoia and social paralysis Stefan Skrimshire argues that grass roots responses to a politics of fear coincide with an explosion of interest in the quasi-religious themes of apocalypse eschatology and utopia in cultural life Where visions of a better future are replaced by the acceptance of a fearful present a state of war with no end this is an important examination

Apocalyptic Discourse in Contemporary Culture Monica Germana, Aris Mousoutzanis, 2014-09-15 This interdisciplinary collection of essays focuses on critical and theoretical responses to the apocalypse of the late twentieth and early twenty first century cultural production Examining the ways in which apocalyptic discourses have had an impact on how we read the world's globalised space the traumatic burden of history and the mutual relationship between language and eschatological belief fifteen original essays by a group of internationally established and emerging critics reflect on the apocalypse its past tradition pervasive present and future legacy The collection seeks to offer a new reading of the apocalypse understood as a complex and frequently paradoxical paradigm of contemporary Western culture The majority of published collections on the subject have been published prior to the year 2000 and in their majority of cases locate the apocalypse in the future and envision it as something imminent This collection offers a post millennial perspective that perceives the end as immanent and simultaneously rooted in the past tradition

American Apocalyptic Juli L. Gittinger, 2024-07-18 In this book Juli Gittinger argues that America's fascination obsession with the apocalypse is a synthesis of religion popular culture and politics in a way that is particular to the US and consonant with mythological historical narratives of America As a result we can identify American apocalypticism as a sort of religion in itself that is closely tied to civil religion that has a worldview and rituals that create identifiable communities and connects American mythology to apocalyptic anxieties Gittinger discusses how various cultures and groups form as a result of this obsession and that these communities form their own rituals and responses in various forms of prepping or survivalist practices She lays out an argument for a broad eschatology prevalent in the US that extends beyond traditional religious designations to form an apocalyptic worldview that is built into our narrative as a country as well as furthered by popular culture and media's contribution to apocalyptic anxieties Subsequently Gittinger uses case studies of apocalyptic events current or speculative that reveal how our anxieties about the end of the world as we know it inform our culture as well as religious narratives that emerge from such crises

Failing Desire Karmen MacKendrick, 2017-12-04 Luckily for human diversity we are perfectly capable of desiring impossible things Failing Desire explores a particular set of these impossibilities those connected to humiliation These include the failure of autonomy in submission of inward privacy in confession of visual modesty in exhibition and of dignity in playing various roles Historically those who find pleasure in these failures range from ancient Cynics through early Christian monks to those now drawn by queer or perverse eroticism As Judith Halberstam pointed out in The Queer Art of Failure failure can actually be a mode of resistance to demands for what a culture defines as success Karmen MacKendrick draws on this interest in queer refusals To value desire or seek humiliation undercuts any striving for success but it draws our attention particularly to the failures of knowledge as a form of power whether that knowledge is of one body or of a population How can we understand will that seeks not to govern itself psychology that constructs inwardness by telling all blushing shame that delights in exposure or dignity that refuses its lofty position Failing Desire suggests that the power of these desires and pleasures comes out of the very realization that this question can never quite be answered Facing Apocalypse Keller, Catherine, 2021-05-19 The biblical Apocalypse of John offers a lens for considering the apocalyptic challenges of our time Crystals Out of Chaos Lesley Marx, 1997 In this new study of the novels of John Hawkes author Lesley Marx has brought to light insights from the three novels Hawkes has published in the last ten years as well as from his other works According to Marx all three of these new novels continue to attest to the fertility of Hawkes s imagination and the fine crafting of his prose But at least two of the new works Adventures in the Alaskan Skin Trade and Sweet William A Memoir of Old Horse also reveal an expansive and transformative vision that celebrates the shifting and fluid possibilities of authority writing storytelling and gender The End of the World Maria Manuel Lisboa, 2011 Our fear of the world ending like our fear of the dark is ancient deep seated and perennial It crosses boundaries of space and time recurs in all human communities and finds expression in every aspect of cultural production from pre historic cave paintings to high tech computer games This volume examines historical and imaginary scenarios of apocalypse the depiction of its likely triggers and imagined landscapes in the aftermath of global destruction Its discussion moves effortlessly from classic novels including Aldous Huxley s Brave New World George Orwell s Nineteen Eighty Four and Margaret Atwood s Oryx and Crake to blockbuster films such as Blade Runner Armageddon and Invasion of the Body Snatchers Lisboa also takes into account religious doctrine scientific research and the visual arts to create a penetrating multi disciplinary study that provides profound insight into one of Western culture s most fascinating and enduring preoccupations
