Pregnancy To Podium:

Pregnancy to Podium Susie Mitchell, 2013-11-14 Susie Mitchell is a 37 year first time mom to a lovely vibrant baby girl Tori Always enjoying the challenge of trying her hand at different sports she discovered track cycling in July of 2011 After failing to make her mark in anything from shot putt to surfing it finally seemed she had found something she was good at Then two months later she became pregnant Having set her sights on competing in the World Masters Track Cycling Championships the following October she needed a plan It would come four months after the birth and she wanted to be ready to give a good account of herself Wanting to train properly throughout her pregnancy she looked for and found lots of advice but was alarmed at how conservative views on exercise were during this time The advice of gentle jogging or easy swimming wasn't appealing Being both a vet and scientist with a background in research she decided to look into it herself and focus on what the science said as her guide Through this a healthy dose of common sense and the help of her coach she found a way to maintain and improve her fitness while training through all stages of her pregnancy and post partum Her return to form came so much quicker than anyone could have expected winning a National Medal just 6 weeks after the birth She added others in the following months and went from strength to strength culminating in winning a title in the Individual Pursuit at the World Masters Track Championships in Manchester just a few months after Tori arrived She had somehow managed to achieve her lifelong goal of sporting success in any discipline and had pregnancy to thank for it Susie showed that it is not only possible to stay fit and healthy by exercising through your pregnancy but that you could turn pregnancy to your advantage during training The physiological changes in the body during this time mean training with baby on board is akin to training at altitude Only a lot cheaper and easier to do By staying somewhat immersed in her sport she also reaped another unforeseen benefit she succeeded in maintain her identity through it all Staying fit and getting back on the bike post partum was one of the things that kept her sane when coping with the biggest shock to the system anyone can have becoming a mom for the first time All of this was made possible by the help of a very supportive husband Cormac She is now back at work as a fish vet travelling all around Ireland visiting fish farms and jumping on and off trawlers She tries to balance working being a mum and enjoying her sport a bit of a juggling act at times Wanting to help other women like her during their pregnancies she wrote the book she would have liked to read Difficult Cases in Endourology Ahmed Al-Kandari, Mahesh Desai, Ahmed A. Shokeir, Ahmed M. Shoma, Arthur D. Smith, 2012-10-23 The book will serve as on demand reference for consultation when one is faced with such special scenario in the field of endourology It's easy to read and easy to understand format should give an easy access to all chapters right from the beginning so there is no need to read previous chapters for understanding the current one Furthermore it will serve as a textbook for problem oriented approach which will be an interesting and attractive method of teaching Mind, Body, Bump Brit Williams, 2019-05-02 Power up your pregnancy with this unique prenatal training plan Keeping active throughout pregnancy is incredibly beneficial for both you and your baby helping to alleviate less glowing symptoms aid labour and postnatal recovery as well as contribute to healthy fetal development Fitness guru Brit Williams has developed month by month workouts to support your body and bump at every stage of your pregnancy Adaptable for all fitness levels these exercises can be practised at home outside in the park or in the gym with a few items of equipment or just your own bodyweight With lifestyle advice including tips on mental wellbeing sleep and nutrition reading this book is like having a personal trainer and cheerleader by your side on every step of this rewarding journey

Theorising and Representing Maternal Realities Julie Kelso, Marie Porter, 2009-05-05 Maternal research is a rapidly expanding multi disciplinary form of scholarship Prior to second wave feminism most motherhood literature was written from a male perspective This literature focused on telling mothers how to practice mothering without acknowledging the expertise of the mothers themselves Research on motherhood as it is experienced in all its facets by mothers has only emerged in recent decades This book is aimed at expanding academic knowledge of motherhood from a feminist perspective looking particularly at how maternal subjectivities can be represented and theorised When mothers themselves academic or not are responsible for theorisation and representation of maternal realities dominant theories and representations of motherhood are radically challenged In Theorising and Representing Maternal Realities the contributors argue that it is no longer acceptable to regard mothers as mere objects of knowledge and research They are primarily the subjects of knowledge and research

Prenatal Bonding Analysis György Hidas, Jenő Raffai, Judit Vollner, 2022-12-30 This book presents a novel psychoanalytic and psychotherapeutic method which enables expectant mothers to establish communication with their unborn babies After an exploration of the root aspects of pre and perinatal psychology and psychoanalysis details of the practice of prenatal bonding analysis are introduced The volume concludes with 15 interviews where mothers who experienced the bonding analysis give first hand accounts of their encounters With its theoretical practical and testimonial threefold structure the book aims at reaching out to both specialists and a general readership especially prospective parents

Paul Ricoeur and the Hope of Higher Education Daniel Boscaljon, Jeffrey F. Keuss, 2021-01-14 The essays in Paul Ricoeur and the Hope of Higher Education The Just University discuss diverse ways that Paul Ricoeur's work provides hopeful insight and necessary provocation that should inform the task and mission of the modern university in the changing landscape of Higher Education This volume gathers interdisciplinary scholars seeking to reestablish the place of justice as the central function of higher education in the twenty first century The contributors represent diverse backgrounds including teachers scholars and administrators from R1 institutions seminary and divinity schools as well as undergraduate teaching colleges This collection edited by Daniel Boscaljon and Jeffrey F. Keuss offers critical and practical visions for the renewal of higher education The first part of the book provides an internal examination of the university system and details how Ricoeur's thinking assists on pragmatics from syllabus design to final exams to daily teaching The second portion of the book examines the Just University's role as a social institution within the broader cultural world and looks at how Ricoeur's description of values informs how the university works relative to religious belief prisons and rural poverty

The Gene, the Clinic, and the Family Joanna Latimer, 2013-07-04 While some theorists argue that medicine is caught in a relentless process of geneticization and others offer a thesis of biomedicalization there is still little research that explores how these effects are accomplished in practice Joanna Latimer whose groundbreaking ethnography on acute medicine gave us the social science classic The Conduct of Care moves her focus from the bedside to the clinic in this in depth study of genetic medicine Against current thinking that proselytises the rise of laboratory science Professor Latimer shows how the genetic clinic is at the heart of the revolution in the new genetics Tracing how work on the abnormal in an embryonic genetic science dysmorphology is changing our thinking about the normal The Gene the Clinic and the Family charts new understandings about family procreation and choice Far from medicine experiencing the much proclaimed death of the clinic this book shows how medicine is both reasserting its status as a science and revitalising its dominance over society not only for now but for societies in the future This book will appeal to students scholars and professionals interested in medical sociology science and technology studies
