From its early focus on documentary film and nation building to its more recent spotlight on contemporary culture and feature filmmaking, Moroccan cinema has undergone tremendous change since the country's independence in 1956. In What Moroccan Cinema: A Historical and Critical Study 1956-2006, Sandra Gayle Carter chronicles the changes in Moroccan laws, institutions, ancillary influences, individuals active in the field, representative films, and film culture during this fifty-year span. Focusing on Moroccan history and institutions relative to the cinema industry, such as television, newspaper criticism, and Berber videomaking, What Moroccan Cinema is an intriguing study of the ways in which three historical periods shaped the Moroccan cinema industry. Carter provides an insightful and thorough treatment of the cinema institution, discussing exhibition and distribution, censorship, and cinema clubs and caravans. embodied experience of pregnancy as enacted in space and identity shaping processes resulting in a more acute sense of selfhood and agency Despite seemingly disparate experiences of the selected heroines and the repeated attempts at containment of their unruly bodies the ever transforming and spatial pregnant identities remain loci of embodied selfhood and agency This book provocatively argues that fictional characters experience reflects tangible realities of early modern women while often deflecting the scientific consensus on reproduction in the period
