- Let's say you are running a business and you sell gourmet popsicles for $3 each.
- What would you do if your customers were willing to buy your product if you raised the price 20%? ($3.60)
- Would you take an extra day off of work each week to make the same amount if you could make the same income with 20% less work each week?
- Or, would you produce more popsicles to sell and increase your revenue?
- As prices rise, producers will offer more a good and more suppliers will enter the market to get a share of the profits.
