Anatomy of the Skin

Introduction: The skin, composed of your integumentary system, is your body's outermost "armor." It's not only a barrier against the environment, it's also a major organ. It's made of two main layers: the epidermis and the dermis. The epidermis is the top layer of your skin, and it's made up of several layers of cells. The dermis is the layer below the epidermis, and it's made of connective tissue. The skin is made of several layers of cells, and it's made of connective tissue. The skin is made of several layers of cells, and it's made of connective tissue. The skin is made of several layers of cells, and it's made of connective tissue.
