Central Africa in the Caribbean Maureen Warner Lewis, Maureen Warner-Lewis, 2003 Maureen Warner Lewis's pioneering study analyses some of the main lineaments of the Central African cultural legacy in the Caribbean with fascinating transatlantic comparative data. She identifies Central African cultural forms in areas settled by the Koongo Mbundu and Ovimbunda, the two present-day Congos and Angola, and illuminates Caribbean thought and customs through comparison with those cultures. Dixon, 2013. Linguists and anthropologists explore the intriguing variety of possessive phrases denoting ownership of property, whole part relations such as body and plant parts and blood and affinal kinship relations across a wide range of languages. Like others in the series, this pioneering book will be equally valued in linguistics and anthropology. A New Version of the Gāndhārī Dharmapada and a Collection of Previous-birth Stories Timothy Lenz, Andrew Glass, 2003. This volume continues the detailed examination of the British Library Kharosthi scrolls: extremely fragile and brittle fragments of manuscript on birch bark rolls. Although their provenance is uncertain, there are strong indications that they came from Hadda in eastern Afghanistan and were most likely written in the early first century A.D. during the reign of the Saka rulers, making them the oldest known Buddhist manuscripts. Fragments 16 and 25 are two long, relatively narrow fragments that obviously belong to the same scroll. Two texts were written on the scroll, each by a different scribe. The first text, referred to as the Gandhari London Dharmapada, represents an anthology of verses well known in the Buddhist tradition. The second text is a series of stories concerning previous births of the Buddha and of some of his disciples.
