French, 1990 This volume investigates the many issues associated with air pollution The author takes a look at the worldwide health threats that are caused by poor quality air She continues by examining the toll taken on the Earth's environment to due human created air emissions She discusses methods to reduce pollutants in the atmosphere and also state of politics as it pertains to air quality she also offers a list of things that will need to be done to checked the problem of increased air pollution Eastern Transportation Corridor (ETC), SR-231 Between SR-91 and South of I-5 at SR-133, Orange County, Supplemental EIS, 1994 The Plot to Save the World Wade Rowland, 1973 The Global Politics of Abortion Jodi L. Jacobson, 1990 Locating the issue of abortion in a global public policy context with the array of public health human rights and social questions that are implicated is the aim of this paper Abortion laws around the world have been liberalized since the 1950s with a resultant decrease in abortion related mortality among women The proportion of the world's population governed by laws that permit abortion on medical or broader social and economic grounds is 75 percent nearly 4 billion people In addition to women living in those countries that have resisted liberalization of their abortion laws many women have restricted access to abortion even those in countries in which abortion is technically legal There are a number of reasons for this including a lack of government or public commitment to provide or fund services lack of trained specialists administrative roadblocks a woman's ability to pay and a lack of truthful information about legal rights and services Abortion rates from countries around the world are examined and discussed in terms of the varying demographic and social realities. The large number of maternal deaths due to abortion that still occur is not due to a deficiency in technology but a deficiency in the value placed on women's lives. The numerous roadblocks to safe abortion services drive women to seek illegal or clandestine abortions that greatly endanger their lives. The debate surrounding abortion has been too often portrayed as a conflict between black and white hues. The debate needs to take place in a larger context complete with public health, family planning, and human rights concerns. Equality of political rights for women and likely the lives of many hinges on political decisions regarding abortion. DB Apartheid's Environmental Toll Alan Thein Durning, 1990 Alternatives to the Automobile Marcia D. Lowe, 1990. The numerous and widespread problems associated with the automobile are discussed. Traffic congestion, air pollution, and oil dependence are some of the reasons why the use of alternative fuels is necessary. A proposal is made for a new transport environment where walking, bicycling, and public transportation are used to complement the use of the automobile. Gradual restructuring of cities and suburbs to make alternatives viable and to lessen the need for driving is also discussed. Chapters include 1 From Servant to Master 2 Getting on Track 3 Cities for People 4 The Road Not Taken and 5 A Policy Overhaul. KR
