Single channel recording has become a widely used tool for the study of ion permeation mechanisms in biological membranes Whereas the technique might have been considered an art after its introduction in 1976 it developed into a relatively simple method after it became possible to obtain high resistance several gigaohm membrane pipette seals In the summer of 1982 a course on the technique was held at the Ettore Majorana Center for Scientific Culture in Erice Sicily It brought together people from most of the laboratories involved in patch clamping at that time During the course it became apparent that the technique had reached a state of maturity Repeatedly the opinion was expressed that a detailed description of all the aspects of the technique including representative examples of results should be available We therefore asked the course instructors as well as several other colleagues to provide chapters on selected topics in order to produce this volume The different variants of patch clamping were described quite extensively in an article by Hamill Marty Neher Sakmann and Sigworth Pflugers Archiv 391 85 in 1981 Rather than repeating this survey in an introductory chapter we chose to reprint that article in the Appendix of this volume by permission of Springer Verlag The methods section will therefore go straight into detailed aspects of the technology
