Tool Support for System Specification, Development and Verification Rudolf Berghammer, Yassine Lakhnech, 2012-12-06 The correct development of large complex pieces of software demands a thorough structuring of the design process In a first phase the requirements engineering is relevant for capturing the relevant functionality and its adequate formalization in precise mathematical definitions Prototyping can be used as a means for checking the functional behaviour at this early stage of development The adequate specification resulting from the first phase is then the basis for the second phase which comprises the derivation of an implementation This phase requires the use of formal methods and tools to verify/validate the implementation A prerequisite for applying this approach is to have a suitable mechanical support This volume contains the proceedings of the International Workshop Tool Support for System Specification Development and Verification organized June 1-4 1998 in Malente Germany This workshop is the third in a series of events devoted to this topic The first two workshops were held in 1994 in Kiel and 1996 in Bremen

Germany The aim of this workshop is to provide a forum for researchers interested in the use and development of tools which support the use of mathematical techniques for the specification development and verification of systems The workshop covers the spectrum from verification tools to graphical editors and compilers The program of the workshop included an invited lecture and 26 talks The invited lecture was given by F W von Henke University ofUlm on Mechanized formal methods and system design
