

09. Explain how an A.C. generator works in its most simple form.

Ans: A.C. generator works:

An AC generator is an electric generator that converts mechanical energy into electrical energy in the form of alternative emf or alternating current. An AC generator works on the principle of "electromagnetic induction".

When the magnet is moved "away" from the coil, the galvanometer needle deflects in the opposite direction, indicating a change in polarity. By moving the magnet back and, forth towards the coil, the needle of the galvanometer will deflect left or right, positive or negative, relative to the magnet's motion.

If you keep the magnet stationary and move only the coil toward or away from the magnet, the needle on the galvanometer will also move in either direction. A voltage is induced in a coil when the coil is moved through a magnetic field, and the magnitude of this voltage is proportional to the speed at which the coil is moved. For Faraday's law to be valid, either the coil or the magnetic field (or both) must be in "relative motion" with one another for the induced emf or voltage to be increased with increasing field speed.

10. Explain the units of mutual induction and provide an example.

Ans: Mutual Inductance:

When the electric current in the primary coil changes, the magnetic field changes as well, linking the secondary coil to the primary coil. In the secondary coil, this shifting flux causes an e.m.f. Mutual Induction describes this process. The secondary coil's e.m.f. is proportional to the primary coil's rate of change of current. Thus:

$$\epsilon_s \propto \frac{\Delta \phi_p}{\Delta t} \quad \epsilon_s = -M \frac{\Delta \phi_p}{\Delta t}$$

where M is a constant, called mutual inductance of the two coils.

Hence:

$$M_s = \frac{\epsilon_s}{\frac{\Delta \phi_p}{\Delta t}}$$

S.I Unit of Mutual Inductance:

The S.I unit of mutual inductance is "Henry" while is equal to $\frac{\text{volt / sec}}{\text{amp}}$
