The Politics of Water Vivienne Bennett,1995-11-15 Monterrey is Mexico s second most important industrial city emerging in this era of free trade as a cornerstone of Mexico s economic development But development has been uneven and has taken a toll As recently as the early 1980s nearly a quarter of the city s almost three million inhabitants did not have running water in their homes At the same time heavy industry especially steel iron chemical and paper works were major users of water in their production processes Extensive industrialization coupled with a lack of infrastructure development astonishing in a major industrial city raises serious questions about the process of planning urban services in Mexico Bennett uses the water crisis of the 1980s as a lens through which to reveal this planning process and the provision of public services in Monterrey She finds three groups who were central to the evolution of the city s water system federal and state government leaders the regional private sector elite the Grupo Monterrey and women living in the low income neighborhoods of the city Bennett unravels the politics of water in Monterrey by following three threads of inquiry First she examines the water services themselves what was built when why and who paid for them She then reveals the response of poor women to the water crisis analyzing who participated in protests the strategies they used and how the government responded And finally she considers the dynamics of planning water services for the private sector and the government in investment and management In the end Monterrey s water services improved because power relations shifted and because poor women in Monterrey used protests to make national news out of the city s water crisis The Politics of Water makes a significant contribution to the emerging scholarship on regional politics in Mexico and to a deeper understanding of the Monterrey region in particular Until recently most scholarly writing on Mexico spoke of the national political system as a monolithic whole Scholars such as Vivienne Bennett are now recognizing the power of local citizens and the significant differences among regions when it comes to politics policy making and governmental investment decisions Philippine Association's Weekly Economic Review ,1970 Semiannual Report of the Atomic Energy Commission U.S. Atomic Energy Commission,1956 The Journal of the Assembly During the ...
