Health Policy and Systems Responses to Forced Migration Kayvan Bozorgmehr, Bayard Roberts, Oliver Razum, Louise Biddle, 2020-02-25 Forced migration has yet to be sufficiently addressed from the perspective of health policy and systems research resulting in limited knowledge on system level interventions and policies to improve the health of forced migrants. The contributions within this edited volume seek to rectify this gap in the literature by compiling the existing knowledge on health systems and health policy responses to forced migration with a focus on asylum seekers, refugees and internally displaced people. It also brings together the work of research communities from the fields of political science, epidemiology, health sciences, economics, psychology and sociology to push the knowledge frontier of health research in the area of forced migration towards health policy and systems level interventions while also framing potential routes for further research in this area. Among the analyses within the chapters: The political economy of health and forced migration in Europe; Innovative humanitarian health financing for refugees; Understanding the resilience of health systems; Health security in the context of forced migration; Discrimination as a health systems response to forced migration; Health Policy and Systems Responses to Forced Migration. This book offers unique and interdisciplinary theoretical, empirical and literature based perspectives that apply a health policy and systems approach to health and healthcare challenges among forced migrants. It will find an engaged audience among policy makers and analysts, international organizations, scholars in academia, think tanks and students in undergraduate programs or at the graduate level for policy practice and educational purposes.
