visual artist Daniel Lee for Microsoft's Evolution campaign and video games Tomb Raider. Each close reading illustrates the ways in which representations of digital lifestyles and identities which typically fetishize computers and celebrate a high tech aesthetic encourage participation in digital capitalism and commodity cyberculture. Matrix argues that popular representations of cyberculture often function as forms of social criticism that creatively inspire audiences to think different in the words of Mac advertising about the consequences of the digitalization of everyday life. Social Media Archeology and Poetics Judy Malloy, 2005-05-27. First person accounts by pioneers in the field, classic essays and new scholarship document the collaborative and creative practices of early social media. Focusing on early social media in the arts and humanities and on the core role of creative computer scientists, artists and scholars in shaping the pre-Web social media landscape. Social Media Archeology and Poetics documents social media lineage beginning in the 1970s with collaborative ARPANET research, Community Memory, PLATO, Minitel and ARTEX and continuing into the 1980s and beyond with the Electronic Caf, Art Com, Electronic Network Arts, Wire, The THING and many more. With first person accounts from pioneers in the field as well as papers by artists, scholars and curators, Social Media Archeology and Poetics documents how these platforms were vital components of early social networking and important in the development of new media and electronic literature. It describes platforms that allowed artists and musicians to share and publish their work, community networking, diversity and the creation of footholds for the arts and humanities online. And it invites comparisons of social media in the past and present, asking: What can we learn from early social media that will inspire us to envision a greater cultural presence on contemporary social media.
