

Leaze : meadow-land

Own : admit

Haps : occurrences, chances

Credit : belief

Stem : curb, restrain

He never expected much

- "He" : is referring to himself - the past him when he was a child. He doesn't use the pronoun "I" and detaches himself in the title. Why:
 - To arouse the interest of the reader.
 - Perhaps he was in a reflective/contemplative mood and so detached himself to be a mute spectator while analysing his own life. The message he gives is given when he was analysing his life.

Well, World, you have kept faith with me,

- "world" : Personification :
- "Well" : discourse marker : informal tone - sets the conversational tone and creates an intimacy with the reader. Shows the reflective tone of the poet.
- "Well, World" : alliteration 'w' :
- "World" : capitalised : shows the respect the poet has for the world.
- "Well world" : apostrophe : the poet is addressing the world.
- "kept faith in me" : the world kept its promise and did not let the poet down.

Kept faith with me;

- "kept faith with me" : repetition : gives the poem a hymn like tone / a sing-song tone. Asserts the feeling of satisfaction the poet has on the way life has treated him.

Upon the whole you have proved to be

Much as you said you were.

- It is building up to the climax. The poet is creating suspense. We readers are expecting something extraordinary but the answer we get is not - it is more anti-climactic. More modest.

Since as a child I used to lie

Upon the leaze and watch the sky,

- "the sky" : metaphor; for the endless possibilities/challenges/pain / the future.
- Enjambment: shows the passage of time and the fact that he learnt this lesson quite early in life.

Never, I own, expected I

That life would be all fair.

- The poet got the message that life was not fair / life isn't going to be a bed of roses. He understood very early on in life that there will be struggles and painful moments.
- "I" : assonance : adds to the realistic tone of the poem and this very realistic outlook helped the poet get through hard times in his life

'Twas then you said, and since have said,
